Borough Hopes to Hold Line on Tax Rate But Police Demands For 17% Raise Plus Extra Benefits May Make It Impossible

The Borough managed to hold the line and the local tax won't go higher than the present 97 cents. However.....

The $2,919,958 budget allows only a 5% salary increase for municipal employees, and police are asking for a 17% raise (plus benefit increases) and Mercer County has levied 23¢ more on the Borough and the Princeton Regional Schools, 11¢ more.

So the overall Borough tax bill will be 8 percent higher in 1975: $4.65 per $100 of assessed valuation, compared to the current $4.31. And don't count on the permaneoce of that 97 cents.

Commenting on schuol and county levies, Council's finance chairman Robert Powell said acidly, "Apparently they were not able to exercise the same amount of restraint we did."

The Borough's budget was introduced at a special Council meeting Monday and outlined in detail at Council's Tuesday night session. Public hearing will be Tuesday, March 11.

The Township Story. In the Township, the local rate went up two cents: from 50 cents to 52 cents in a municipal purposes budget of $3,325,294---6.4 percent higher than 1974. In the Township, the school levy went up 8 cents and the county levy, 13 cents. That's from $1.82 to $1.90 and from 96 cents to $1.09, respectively.

Increases in the school and county levy mean that a larger reserve must be put aside to offset taxes that may not be collected in 1975, and Township officials say if it hadn't been for these tax increases, the local tax rate could have been held at 50 cents.

The Township's budget, introduced at a special Monday night meeting, will be up for public hearing on Monday, March 10.

"How can a town challenge these county levies?" asked Steve Slahy of Township Committee. "What kind of voice do we have?"

Mayor Jay Bleiman pointed out that he and Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley have asked the county to hold tight, and he suggested citizens attend county budget hearings. He did add, however, that the county has mandated expenses like welfare----up sharply---the court system and Mercer County Community College.

Like the Borough, the Township has planned a 5 percent salary increase, and like the Borough, is faced with the 17 percent police request. No new positions have been opened on the Township staff or on any joint agencies.

Borough officials say that, while the 5 percent increase may be slim, no Borough employee will be laid off or put on a short week in 1975.

Increases Listed. Although the Township's detailed budget won't be available for a couple of weeks, Committee did list increases of $113,211 for General Operations (up 4.9 percent) and a net increase of $32,688 (4.4 percent) in the Township's share of joint agencies.

Here the biggest increase is the additional 62.4 percent for continuing the loop bus system and re-activating Crosstown-62 for the elderly. The amount will be $33,500, compared to $20,625 last year.

The Township, like any town, has to pay itself back for emergency appropriations. Emergency borrowing---$8,920---paid for a new police car following a collision, continued the loop bus system, paid for the solid waste survey and provided money for salaries after the 1974 budget had been adopted.

This Is Princeton

"Top priority this year is to the taxpayer," said Councilman Robert Powell, explaining the budget Tuesday night at Council. Only three new programs have been allowed, he said: Crosstown-62, $1,000 for the Bicentennial and $1,500 to Civil Rights for a Community Development Corporation to preserve housing, all to be split with the Township.

For the first time, Council examined all programs from the ground up. Here are major cuts:

Recreation: "The most difficult," Mr. Powell said. Original cut was $14,000, but $11,000 was restored allowing all wading pools for an eight-week season, summer playgrounds at fewer locations. Where few participate, making high costs, programs will probably go—like Street Theatre. Adult programs, like softball or basketball with $10-a-game umpires, will have to charge fees. A petitioner Tuesday night was told to take requests to the Recreation Board itself.

"It bothers me," said Recreation Director Donald Barr last week, "that people don't understand the value of recreation. With the economic downturn, there will be more people staying in Princeton this summer. It's actually the time to increase services."

Library: The dollar increase is 3% but the 5% salary increase plus inflation, means less for books, tapes and materials. The library, however, gets money from the state.

Jack Hammer, library treasurer, told Council his board wanted to "annualize" salaries, a technical adjustment costing the library about $3,000, he said. He told Council he'd ask his board to curtail services in order to be fair to the staff in this regard.

Capital improvements: About $57,000 less in this account—a drop of 38%. The Borough will delay a new firetruck, (but will put $10,000 in a sinking fund toward such expensive outlays), defer street repair and expansion of bike routes. Three "needy" streets will get repair: Harrison North (unless the state defaults: 90% would be paid by the state); Lytle and Westcott. Curb-cuts for bikes, $3,000, will "open miles of sidewalks to bike use," Mr. Powell said. John and Pine wading pools will be re-constructed and some parking yards repaired. Fixing the newly acquired Public Service yard next to the library, will mean more parking revenue.

Revaluation: None this year, saving $34,000. Officials suspect rich home-owners pay a higher percentage of value in taxes than the poor, so reassessment could have hurt lower-income families. The Borough assesses at only 58% of true value, one of the lowest rates in the county, and may some day be required to revalue, Mr. Powell warned.

Michael Spicer, for Community Guidance, protested Council's deletion of $2,000, which is the base for matching state funds, he said. The money is funneled through the Board of Health's budget, and board president Louise Bessire told Council the board was "very distressed."

Council member Barbara Sigmund said Council was unaware of the "multiplier effect" of the $2,000 and the fact that Community Guidance spends more on Borough indigent than it gets back. She offered a conference with Mr. Spicer.

And. . . .although the local rate technically stays at 97¢ sewer charges—about $30 a year—will be listed separately on tax bills. Last year they were buried within that same 97¢ rate.

Drug-Making "Factory" Uncovered at 172 Nassau Had Potential for Major Explosion, Police Say

An elaborate and sophisticated drug manufactoring operation located in an apartment at 172 Nassau Street was halted when it was raided Sunday afternoon by a combined force of Borough, State Police and federal agents.

They seized four poonds of methamphetamine with a street value of $30-33,000 and charged the apartment occupants, Robert and Theresa Kokesh, both 28, with manufactore of a controlled dangerous substance and possession of a controlled dangerous suhstance with intent to sell.

The couple was taken to Federal Court in Bergen County and arraigned under $7,500 bail. Both charges are in violation of federal narcotic laws. They are presently free on bail.

Borough chief Michael Carnevale said that in addition, police found 30 pounds of raw material in the apartment--enough, had it been processed, to bring another $230,000 on the street. He explained that methamphetamine is also known as "speed" and is an "opper."

Chief Carnevale reported that there were indications that the drug factory had just begon operation and that the methamphetamine seized may have been an original batch. The couple were the only ones inside the apartment, he said, and there were no other arrests.

Explosive By-product. Chief Carnevale stated that police also seized what he termed "an interesting by-product of the process." It is a powdery mixture of metal sodium and kerosene which is highly volatile and explosive.

A chemist told police that if a small amount of water had been accidentally added, half the apartment building would have been blown up. The 60th Ordinance Disposal Unit at Fort Dix was notified and the same day it removed the explosive mixture from the apartment and took it to Fort Dix.

Police work began in November under Det. Timothy Huizing of the Borough's narcotics squad, who, acting on information received, initiated an investigation of drug activity on the University campus. He co-ordinated his efforts with state police and federal drug agents. At 8:40 Sunday evening, a search warrant for the Kokech apartment was executed

Taking part in the raid were Detectives Huizing, Ronald Holladay and Arthor Gallant of the Borough police, five federal agents and two state police. Inside they uncovered the sophisticated–and illicit–factory.

"There was thousands of dollars worth of equipment," Chief Carnevale commented, including a fancy "cooker" and tubing. An elaborate hood and exhaust fan had been installed over the cooker to carry noxious fumes safely to the outside air.

Chief Carnevale cited Det. Huizing for his work in the investigation. "We're very pleased with the way it turned out," he said.

2 CALCULATORS STOLEN

From Engineering Quad. Two calculators, one an electric model valued at $636, were stolen last week from offices in the Engineering Quadrangle on Olden Street.

The second was valued at $149.50. In neither instance, police said, was there any sign of a forced entry. A floor polisher worth $400 was also taken from Green Hall on the University campus last week, and, again, there was no forced entry.

A Princeton university student had her purse stolen, police said, when someone walked into her room in Holder Hall Sunday morning around 3 while she was asleep. She lost $13.

Borough police did not learn of the theft until 2:15 that afternoon, when the purse was found in a Palmer Square parking lot. The money was missing but the victim's check book and glasses were still inside.

Township police report that James D. Winkler, 1942 Hall, Princeton University, left his room Thursday to take a shower. When he returned, his calculator ($50) and brown leather wallet containing $2 had been stolen.

Patricia A. Wheeler, 123 Jefferson Road, lost her pocketbook last week in the Princeton Shopping Center lot to a quick-acting thief.

She told police that she was opening her car door and had her pocketbook in her other hand when a man dashed by, grabbed her purse containing $35 to $40 and fled toward the Grover Avenue playground. Police said she was unable to provide any identification.

In an act of malicious mischief, someone last week slashed two tires on a car belonging to Serge Lang, 220 Springdale Road, while it was parked on the owner's property.

Delegation of Princetonians Will Make "Save the Dinky" Pilgrimage to Washington

Next Wednesday, February 19, commuters, and civic leaders from Princeton and West Windsor will travel to Washington on the early-morning Metroliner to try and save the Dinky.

This Tuesday, about two dozen Dinky supporters met at the Nassau Inn under the leadership of the Chamber of Commerce for a two-hour workshop on railroad-saving led by an ICC lawyer. One piece of advice: keep in touch with your representatives in Congress. That's the reason for Wednesday's trip to Capitol Hill.

Led by Borough Council member Barbara Sigmund and Township Committee member Margaret Broadwater, the delegation will meet with New Jersey Senators Clifford P. Case and Harrison Williams, Princeton's Congressional representative Millicent Fenwick, Congresswoman Helen Meyner, Congressman Frank Thompson and representatives of the U.S Railway Association.

Reason: the Dinky, which shuttles about 900 passengers each working day between Princeton and the main line of the Penn Central at Princeton Junction, has been designated "potentially excess" under the initial Rail Reorganization Plan.

This could mean the ned of Dinky service when the final CONRAIL service is formed.

Parking Problem Acute. If the Dinky is closed down, commuters point out that they will have to drive to Princeton Junction where parking lots are already over-flowing. The new West Windsor parking lot has a waiting list of 120.

Alternatives are more parking lots or bus service. Both cost money and waste energy, commuters say.

According to the timetable blocked out at Tuesday's workshop by Samuel Buffone, of the Office of Public Counsel of the Interstate Commerce Commission's Rail Service Planning Office, Princeton and West Windsor commuters should begin right now, with fact-gathering.

Mr. Buffone passed around a thick manual showing "how to do it."

"The Dinky's service is a typical and there will be some trouble fitting it in to these forms," he acknowledged.

---

Economy the Factor. He told his highly attentive audience that the U.S. Railway Association quite probably has inaccurate data and almost certainly will fail to consider any reasons for saving the Dinky except economic viability.

The Railway Association was set up under the U.S. Railway Reorganization Act of 1973 (which also established Mr. Buffone's office) to make recommendations to Contress about U.S rail lines. By February 28, the Association must submit a preliminary system plan---which doesn't give local commuters much time for fact-finding.

By July of this year, the Association must send Congress a final railroad system plan. That plan will go into operation September 24 unless Congress acts. If either house of Congress disapproves by September 20, the plan goes back to the Association.

But Mr. Buffone warned that Congress wants to get moving and will probably approve the plan as soon as possible.

How Cost Is Figured. "The Railway Association is relying on Penn Central's own data," Mr. Buffone told Dinky supporters, "using these data to assess profitability and what it costs to maintain the line."

"But you'll find that unions know more than management about running the railroad. Unions have told us they will co-operate. Train conductors can make more accurate assessments than Penn Central's management. Maintenance employees know how much time they put in and what materials they used."

The Dinky has been labelled "potentially excess" because it's said to be unprofitable and because it doesn't carry freight. One workshop member said however, that Princeton University gets 32 freight-cars a year on the line, and a lumber yard that backs up to the tracks also gets deliveries.

"But every figure we get makes our case worse!" exclaimed another member, "cars are always breaking down at night. It costs a lot of money to bring in a crew from Trenton at that time of night--it just adds to the 'unprofitability.'"

Facts Are Vital. It is imperative to build up a local case, Mr Buffone emphasized. "Find out the cost to the individual commuter, the cost

Apply Now for Apartment in PCH Project

"Princeton Community Village," the long-awaited middle-and-low income housing project sponsored by Princeton Community Housing, will begin accepting preliminary applications next Wednesday, February 19. Applications must be turned in by March 19.

Preference will be given to those who live or work in Princeton. Rent will be based on a complex formula involving size of family and income. The cost to tenants has inevitably risen because building costs have climbed so steeply, but PCH officials say rents will still be a bargain in this high-rent area.

PCH has applied for additional low-income subsidies to cover 20 per cent of the total units, hoping to minimize the impact of tight income and rent restrictions.

Some of the 168 townhouses, with two, three or four bedrooms, will be ready for occupancy by summer. The 71 one-bedroom units in the six-story "mid-rise" won't be ready until December or January.

Applications may be obtained at Borough or Township Halls, the public library's reference desk, the YM-YWCA, the Borough Housing Authority and churches that belong to PCH: All Saints, Christ Congregation, First Baptist, Jewish Center, Methodist, Mt. Pisgah A.M.E., Nassau Presbyterian, Society of Friends, Trinity, Unitarian, Witherspoon Presbyterian.

Additional details will be announced next week.

to the town. If the Dinky is abandoned, would you have to buy buses or build a new parking lot? Would people leave town? What's the impact on surrounding towns, if your town loses the rail line?"

The counsel also suggested "environmental impact" facts: increase in fuel consumption, which be estimated would be "dramatic," and increase in hydrocarbons, nitrogen oxides and carbon dioxide.

"Difficult to calculate, but you should have such figures," he advised.

What would be the economic impact of losing the Dinky? Job loss? Loss of property taxes to the town? So-called "ripple" job loss? If the line is indeed declared "unprofitable," this could be the second line of defense, he said.

He also suggested forcing the Railway Association to project ahead to improvement—something the Act requires, but which the Association hasn't done. If cars were added, the line improved and more reliable service instituted, would the increased volume generate additional revenue?

Supporters of branch lines in Rocky Hill, Hightstown and Lambertville also attended Tuesday's session. Princeton's co-ordinators for fact-finding will be Edwin Hutter, Barbara Sigmund and William Sutphin.

WHITHER BIKE PATH?

Great Road? Pretty Brook? The tortuous route of the bike path up The Great Road—or Pretty Brook Road?—took another turn Monday night at Township Committee's special (budget) meeting.

Committee amended the map to clarify property descriptions. Municipal attorney Gordon Griffin said the changes were "substantial" so the amended ordinance will be re-advertised and a public hearing held Monday, February 24. Committee won't be meeting on the February 17 holiday.

Abbot Low Moffat told Thomas Jamieson, attorney for land-owner John Winant, that the Winant-proposed bike route along Pretty Brook Road would have to traverse a swamp and the Transcontinental pipeline and mountaineer around a large outcrop of argellite for a possible additional cost of $20,000.

"Impractical," stated Mr. Moffat.

Mr. Jamieson agreed that Mr. Winant's engineer Frank Quinby, and Township Engineer Joseph Hodak would explore the area.

Committee member Duffy Hutter wanted another amendment deleting easements on the Adelaide Howe property. If The Great Road isn't going to be widened, she reasoned, the easements won't be needed.

But Mr. Moffat and Mayor Jay Bleiman said the easements should be retained, although Mr. Moffat said glumly that Great Road widening was far down the road indeed, considering the state of state finances.

The bike path is meant to be a route to school, pointed out Committee member Margaret Broadwater. North of the two

Man Survives Jump from Verrazano Bridge

David Billington, 21, of 23 University Place, was in critical condition Tuesday in a Staten Island hospital after he jumped from the Verrazano Bridge into New York harbor 150 feet below.

He left his car on the 4,260-foot span about 6 p.m. Monday, climbed over the guard rails and plunged into the icy water. A New York City fireman stopped his own car behind Mr. Billington's station wagon and was unsuccessful in his attempt to prevent him from the leap.

The tugboat "Raven", passing under the Narrows bridge at the time, picked up Mr. Billington and took him to St. George, Staten Isand, where an ambulance rushed him to the hospital. He suffered multiple injuries as a result of the fall.

His parents are Prof. and Mrs. David P. Billington. His father is a professor of civil engineering at Princeton.

Mr. Billington's jump from the Verrazano bridge was the second in 48 hours. On Sunday, a New York resident escaped from a taxi cab whose driver had managed to bar his passenger's exit while trying to persuade him not to jump.

The passenger was able to leave the taxi after it had been struck from behind by another automobile. Reportedly suffering from cancer, he jumped from the bridge and was killed.

Quite a Difference

Don't mind it when
I'm feeling cold.
Do mind it when
I'm catching cold.

"Cold" has been the early word for February, which, contrary to predictions, has so far produced sub-normal temperatures. Just possibly, the last half of the month will bring milder weather.

Mid-week rain was in the forecast, with a clearing trend expected for Thursday and Friday. Back to the precipitation probability by Saturday, the Man indicates. "Unsettled" is his definition of the conditions bringing the fairly rapid changes.

Regional School Board Will Vote Next Tuesday on Tenure for Five Administrators

Five administrators in the Princeton Regional School system, four of them highly controversial, will be up for tenure in the jobs they presently hold when the school board holds its special budget meeting next Tuesday at 8 in Community Park School.

Originally, the board planned to act on these staff members at the regular meeting on February 25, but since at least one board member can't be present on that date, the board decided to act when everybody could be on hand to vote.

The five are Virginia Euell in her position as principal of John Witherspoon Middle School; L. Wesley Johnson, personnel administrator; Ronald E. Novak, business administrator; George Petrillo, principal of the high school and Constance Vieland, staff services director. Mr. Novak is the only one who has not, at one time or another, been a storm center of controversy.

The school board has provided resumes of all five, to help the public follow whatever action the board decides to take.

Virginia Euell. B.S. degree in biology from Central State University, Wilberforce, Ohio (1948); Ed. M. in secondary education from Temple (1959); summer work in '61 and '65 at the University of California (Berkeley) and the University of Connecticut with the National Science Foundation Institute and a summer ('71) at Harvard.

She came to Princeton as a Middle School science teacher in 1961 and taught science until 1969 when she became assistant principal of the Middle School. Previously (1955-61) she taught science in the Philadelphia public schools and in the summer of '68, served as curriculum consultant for the State Home for Girls in Trenton.

L. Wesley Johnson. B.A. in philosophy, Northwest Nazarene (Idaho) 1950; M.S. Ed. in elementary education administration from the University of Southern California ('54) and Ed. D. from Stanford ('66).

From 1950 to 1957, he taught grades 4, 6, 7 and 8 in schools in Idaho and California. From 1957 to 1962, he was vice-principal and then principal in two California school districts and from 1964 to 1966, he was administrative assistant (half-time) to the superintendent of the Reed Union School District in California. He came to Princeton in 1966 as principal of the John Witherspoon School, and became associate superintendent in the district in 1971. He has been personnel administrator since 1973.

Ronald Novak. B.S. in accounting, Rider College, 1963; further course work at Rutgers, Rider and Seton Hall.

He was in the printing department at ETS ('55-56); the accounting department at McGraw Hill ('63-64) and was chief accountant for the South Brunswick Board of Education ('64-67) before coming to Princeton in 1968 as director of finance. He became acting business manager in 1970 and business manager the following year. He has been school business administrator since 1972.

George Petrillo. B.S. in elementary education, Mansfield (Pennsylvania) State Teachers College, 1953; M. Ed in guidance and personnel from Rutgers, 1958; summer courses at the University of Delaware ('60); Teachers' College, Columbia University ('65) and the University of Buffalo ('66) and course work at Pennsylvania State and Trenton State.

He came to Princeton in 1959 as a teacher of grade 4 in the old Nassau Street school. He became guidance counsellor at Princeton High in 1960, and director of guidance in 1968. He served as assistant principal and director of guidance in 1971-73 and has been principal since 1973.

Constance Vieland. B.A. in psychology, Pennsylvania State University, 1951; M.S. in clinical psychology, Pennsylvania State, 1953; Ed. D. in school psychology, Rutgers, 1967.

She taught seriously disturbed children at the League School, Brooklyn, in 1956 and came to Princeton in 1966 as school psychologist. She became coordinator of staff development in 1967 and held that post until 1973. Since 1973, she has been director of staff services.

Misrepresentation...

An organization claiming to represent the Trenton Police Athletic League Boxing Tournament is telephoning and soliciting funds throughout the greater Princeton area, telling residents that donations will benefit the Princeton police department and their programs.

"This is not so," stated Chief Frederick Porter as strongly as he could. He advised all residents receiving such calls to report them to the police.

"This organization is not working in co-operation with the Princeton police," he stated. "This solicitation has not been sanctioned or authorized by the Princeton police department in any manner."

schools, where Howe laod is, there is less need for a hike path, so she went along with Mrs. Hutter. Mayor Bleiman, however, suggested that some kids might be biking down from the north.

Mrs. Hutter withdrew her amendment so the question could be examined in more detail.

CHECK PASSER CHARGED

In Criminal Court. Robert Newman, 23, of Rahway appeared in Borough criminal court last week to answer 13 separate charges of passing worthless checks.

Judge Philip Carchman issued a 30-day suspended jail sentence on each charge plus a $15 fine, which he also suspended, and $10 court costs. The defendant is to return to court May 7 and if restitution on the had checks is not made by then, the jail sentence will be served.

James Miller, 21, 7 Lytle Street, received a 20-day sentence to the Mercer County Workhouse and one-year probation for larceny under $200. He received the same sentence on a second charge of possession of stolen property.

His brother, Larry Miller, 18, charged with the same two offenses, will be sentenced March 5, pending a presentence investigation. They pleaded not guilty to all charges.

Win a Prize!

..As a Valentine's Day present to some lucky bus rider, Princeton's loop bus will award----yes, a prize! It will he a surprise prize, but considering the budgetary situation, only a modest surprise prize.

Ride the bus this Friday, Valentine's Day, and you'll get a free chance for the prize. One chance for each trip, so the more you ride (ah!) the more chances you'll have. A drawing will be held at the end of the day, and you'll be notified if you've won.

The afternoon School Special won't run on Valentine's Day, since the schools will be closed for mid-winter holiday. No buses at all will run next Monday. It's a legal holiday for G. Washington.

Latest official tally: 963 riders, week ending January 31.

James C. Attenborough, 22, 10 Spring Street, was fined $110 and placed on a year's probation for shoplifting. Jerome McGowan, 27, 246 John Street, charged with forgery and attempt to commit a forgery, waived a preliminary hearing. His papers were sent to the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office.

Lloyd Ragoonan, 19, 116 Witherspoon Street, was fined $35 each on charges of assault and loud and abusive language. His brother, Keith Rangoonan, 18, was fined $45 each on two charges of tresspassing. On a third charge--possession of a controlled dangerous substance, under 20 grams—he received a conditional discharge term of one year. They pleaded guilty to all charges.

Winfield Dix, 18, 38 Dodds Lane, charged with driving on a lawn, was fined $35 and had his license revoked for three months for careless driving (he had originally been charged with reckless driving) and was fined $110 for malicious damage to property. He denied the motor vehicle charge.

David S. Laschever, 18, 39 Scott Lane, waived a preliminary hearing and had his papers forwarded to the Prosecutor's Office. He has been charged with breaking and entering. Gregory Bullock, 24, 102½ Leigh Avenue, decided to change his plea of guilty to shoplifting to not guilty, and as a result will return to court February 19.

George Kochis, 20, 1 Terry Lane, Princeton Junction, and Henry T. Pinter, 20, Princeton Avenue, Rocky Hill, each waived a preliminary hearing and had their papers sent to the Prosecutor's Office.

Kochis has been charged with two counts of breaking and entering, twn of larceny and one of possession of stolen property. Pinter has been charged with the same five offenses, plus pnssession of a controlled dangerous substance, under 20 grams, and possession of narcotic paraphenalia.

Charges of forgery and malicious damage to oroperty against Dnuglas Griggs, 25, 216 Witherspoon Lane, were adjourned to February 19, pending the addition of another charge.

NINE ARE FINED

In Traffic Court. Nine Princeton area residents were fined Monday by Judge Philip Carchman in Borough traffic court.

Fined for careless driving were Mark P. Descoteau, 57 No. Tulane Street, and Raymond Ranallo, 148 One Mile Road, Cranbury, both $35, and Michael E. Allen, 68 Magnolia Lane, $20, and Felice Nini, 27 Pine Street, $25.

---

John H. Panzer, 61 Robert Road, paid $20 for a U-turn violation; Burtis A. Anderson, Dey Road, Cranbury, $20, obstructing passage; and Steve Virostko, Green Avenue, Belle Mead, $35, leaving the scene of an accident.

Ella R. Cooper, 20, 9 North Edwards Hall, was fined $20 for crossing outside a crosswalk, while John L. Young, a Rider College student, was fined $10 for hitchhiking.

Two In Township. In Township court last week, Judge Carchman fined two defendants for careless driving.

Robert S. Manduca, 5 Jeffrey Lane, Princeton Junction, and Francis G. Holeman, Berrien Avenue, Princeton Junction, both paid $25. Mr. Holeman pleaded not guilty.

Ford Asks Congress for $7.5 Million as Initial Step In Plans For World's Largest Fusion Power Plant on Forrestal Campus

President Ford's budget proposals for fiscal year 1976 include, as expected, a request for $7.5 million for the design and planning of a $215 million Tokamak device to be built on Princeton University's Forrestal Campus. The money must now be appropriated by the Congress.

"The Tokamak Fusion Test Reactor", says Edward A. Frieman, associate director of the Plasma Physics Laboratory, "will be an important step leading toward a fusion demonstration power plant by the turn of the century". Princeton's laboratory is the largest of four major centers of fusion research in the United States supported by the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration, and the Tokamak will be the largest device of its kind in the world.

Fusion is the process through which the sun and the stars create the heavier elements out of hydrogen. The process of fusion is the direct opposite of fission, from which present nuclear energy is produced.

Fusion combines two isotopes of hydrogen--deuterium and tritium--while fission breaks down heavy atoms of uranium or plutonium. Deuterium, an unlimited isotope found in seawater, is fused or joined to the tritium, a laboratory-made isotope, to form helium, releasing large quantities of energy in the process. Fusion, therefore, is a potentially unlimited, cheap and non-polluting source of energy.

The application of a two-component concept in tokamak research was pioneered at the Plasma Physics Laboratory by John M. Dawson, Harold P. Furth, and Frederick H. Tunney in 1971 as a shortcut to the goal of net power production through fusion. Basically, the concept calls for a small amount of tritium gas to be heated to 50 million degress centigrade in a magnetic vessel and then shot with a beam of very energetic deuterium ions (See Town Topics, November 24, 1974).

Like all fusion devices, the tokamak will be free from any danger of nuclear runaway, since the process does not depend on a chain reaction. Therefore, any accident would quench the reactions, not cause a nuclear explosion.

The TFTR will release minute amounts of tritium which is radioactive. Princeton University consulted Nobel Laureate Physicist, Hans A. Bethe, before approving the project.

After studying the plans for the TFTR, Bethe issued a statement which says, in part, "the system is clearly designed with great care, and handles only modest amounts of radioactive materials. In my opinion is does not constitute a radioactive hazard for the surroundings, even if there were an accident."

Dr. Frieman elaborates, "there will be a maximum of 50,000 curies of tritium on site. By expert standards, 50,000 curies is a small amount. One-hundred curies will be fed into the device at any one time and the rest will be in solid form, embedded in metallic blocks in sealed containers."

The TFTR device will be encased in a concrete housing centered in an exclusion area of about 4 acres surrounded by a perimeter fence. Even if there were an accident that released all of the tritium at one time, "the radiation levels beyond the exclusion area," says Frieman, "will then be equal to the radiatinn levels normally experienced by people who live at an altitude 1200 feet higher than Princeton's for one year," or roughly 1400 feet.

Between 1976 and 1980, construction of the TFTR is expected to create some 200 to 400 construction jobs--each with an average duration of one year. In addition, 200 to 220 new hires of professional, laboratory, and supporting personnel are anticipated.

The Energy, Research and Development Administration has issued, for comment, a "Draft Environmental Impact Statement" on the proposed project in accordance with requirements of the National Environmental Policy Act. Copies may be obtained from ERDA Headquarters in Washington and at the Plasma Physics Laboratory in Princeton.

SCHNEIER'S THE NAME!

But County Says No. Janice Schneier, 100 Jefferson Road, got married last fall to Joseph Stonaker, Princeton attorney. A prominent figure in Princeton Democratic politics, she's always been known as "Schneier" and would like to keep that name on the voting lists. She made inquiries of Anton J. Hollendonner, Mercer County Superintendent of Elections.

Now, Mrs. Schneier (Dem.) and Mr. Hollendonner (Rep.) have sparred often before. This time, it's gone all the way to Governor Brendan Byrne.

Because Janice Schneier didn't like Mr. Hollendonner's reply. He told her, for one thing, that the law (NJSA 19:31-15) required her to re-register under her new married name, or have her name removed from the voting lists.

Beyond that, he spelled "Schneier" wrong, addressed her as "Dear Janice" because "Your reluctance to use your married name leads me to conclude you would resent being addressed as 'Mrs.' Since you are in fact married, the designation 'Miss" would seem inappropriate." He added "There is no provision within the election law for the 'reluctant bride.' I suppose it will be basically a question of which you consider to be more 'terribly important,' your husband's name or your ability to vote."

Incensed, Mrs. Schneier wrote Governor Byrne that "No citizen should be addressed in such a fashion by any public official...(The) reply was offensive to me personally and displayed a shocking insensitivity to the special problems of women. People with such obvious biases should not, in my opinion, occupy appointive public positions."

She wrote the letter Monday. Governor Byrne has not yet had time to reply.

Want to Stop Smoking? 5-Day Plan at $15 Offers You a Chance Starting February 23

Smokers wanting to quit the habit have been able to do it in five days with the help of a special program being sponsored by The Princeton Medical Center.

Letters sent this week to doctors and personnel directors in the Princeton area describe the 5-Day Plan to Stop Smoking, being held February 23 through 28 at the Medical Center's Princeton House Unit, 905 Herrontown Road. It is a program of behavior modification presented by trained professionals which teaches the smoker how to stop smoking–and it's successful.

Between 70 and 100 per cent of those who attend all six evening sessions quit smoking within five days. One third remain non-smokers, and most of the others reduce consumption permanently.

These results are reported by Better Living, Inc., the non-profit organization conducting the series of seminars. In the six intensive evening sessions the staff--including doctors, public health educators and counselors--presents lectures and discussions on the psychological aspects of the smoking problem. Demonstrations of ways to help the smoker stop, plus an exchange of experiences between participants are part of the group-therapy approach.

An individual program is developed to help each person relax and avoid situations that lead to having a smoke. Advice is offered on exercise and eating habits, as well.

The goal, according to O.J. Mills, Director of Better Living, is to have the smoker focus on the positive aspects of life without cigarettes. A former physical fitness instructor, Mr. Mills stresses the idea of better overall health, rather than sacrifice, as a motivation to quit smoking.

Based in Philadelphia, Better Living has brought its program to many areas through sponsors like the Medical Center. The charge is a $15 registration fee, payable to Better Living, which covers presentation costs. Registration forms and brochures are available at the Medical Center.

The Medical Center is sponsoring the program as a service to the community in the interests of better health.

CAR HITS TREE

When Driver "Blacks Out." James A. Briscoe, 57, of Trenton, sustained severe lacerations of the face and minor leg injuries Sunday when his car struck a tree on Mercer Road just after crossing the Stony Brook Bridge.

Mr. Briscoe told police that he apparently blacked out. His sedan was totalled and he was taken to the Princeton Medical Center for treatment. Ptl. Robert Nielsen investigated the 1:37 p.m. accident. There were no charges.

Two women received minor injuries following a collision Friday at 7:07 p.m. on Route 206.

Mary L. Delahanty, 24, of Trenton, complained of head pains, and her passenger, Elizabeth Delahanty, 58, of chest pains. According to the police report, the Delahanty car was going south on 206 and apparently crossed over the center line and struck a car coming the opposite direction driven by Alan N. Clarkson, 29, East Burke, Vt. The Delahanty car continued on without stopping.

Mrs. Delahanty subsequently came to police headquarters at 10:15 to report the accident. She was ticketed by Ptl. David Cromwell for careless driving

Pedestrian Hit After Collision. A 73-year old pedestrian, Joseph F. Larkin, 54 S. Harrison, was struck late Friday night by a car just after he had walked across the intersection of Broadmead and Western Way and was standing on the corner.

At the same time, a collision occurred between Richard D. Dutcher, 46, of Hightstown and Maetta L. Mainhart, 20 of Nantucket, Mass. The impact pushed one of the cars into Mr. Larkin, who later complained of a pain in his pelvis. He was treated at the Medical Center.

Ms. Mainhart, traveling on Broadmead, told police she did not stop because she did not see the stop sign. She was issued a summons by Ptl. Mario Musso.

Jersey Bounce. Luther A. Page, 26, 7 Leigh Avenue, a Borough employee, was driving a front-end loader down Nassau Street Thursday afternoon near Queenston Place when his vehicle suddenly started to bounce and he told police he was unable to control it.

It jumped the curb in frnnt of 301 Nassau, knocked down a street sign and struck a tree. He was treated at the Medical Center for a laceration of the forehead which required eight sutures.

MEETING SCHEDULED

For New Hearing Society. The second meeting of the new Hearing Society will be held next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Activities Room at Merwick, 79 Bayard Lane. The society is still in the formative stages, and invites everyone who has a hearing problem or who is interested in the problems of the hearing-impaired to attend

POLICE ARREST SIX

In Separate Charges. Borough police last week made six arrests in separate charges.

John Miller, 21, 7 Lytle Street was arrested and served with an outstanding warrant last Tuesday when he walked into Borough Hall to use a public telephone. Police headquarters are in the building.

While police had Miller in custody, they received a detainer from the Mercer County parole board, stating that he was in violation of his parole. Chief Michael Carnevale reported that Miller is now in jail for violating his parole conditions.

When Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt tried to serve a motor vehicle summons to Jerome McGowan, 27, 246 John Street, last week in front of Borough Hall, McGowan refused to accept it, saying he would rather be placed under arrest than be issued a summons. He then allegedly pushed Ptl. Lenhardt down the steps.

He was arrested by Lenhardt, Sgt. Thomas Michaud, Sgt. Ralph Procaccino and Ptl. Kerry Klink and charged with assault, and placed in Mercer County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bail.

The next day at Borough headquarters, McGowan signed complaints against Lenhardt. Michaud and Klink charging them with assault and a second complaint against Lenhardt charging him with threatening to take his life.

Claude Simon, 19, Holder Hall was arrested and charged with possession of a firearm on campus. He was released in his own recognizance, pending an appearance in court Feb. 19.

His arrest stemmed from an investigation by Det. Ronald Holladay into the breaking last month of windows at Langrock's by a pellet gun. Holder Hall is across the street from Langrock's.

Robert Newman, 21, of Rahway, attending Borough criminal court last week to answer charges of passing worthless checks, was also charged while in court with possession of heroin. He was released in 10 percent of $1500 bail.

Police explained that while Newman was in their custody, they found a white substance in his possession which they believed to be heroin. It was sent to the state police lab to be analyzed. When the report came back positive, a warrant for Newman's arrest was issued.

Charles Gilmore, 20, of West Creek, was found sleeping Thursday in the basement of Foulke Hall on campus. During processing, police discovered they had a warrant for his arrest for contempt of court for failing to appear to answer a charge of shoplifting. There were also outstanding warrants for his arrest, police said, from West Windsor, Hopewell Township and Lawrence Township.

After being charged by Borough police, Gilmore was released in $50 bail and turned over to Lawrence Township authorities.

Arnold Mitnaul, 23, Greenview Drive, was picked up Thursday on a warrant from the Mercer County Court for failing to appear for a sentencing.

While being processed at Borough headquarters, police allegedly found marijuana in his possession. He was charged with possession of under 25 grams of the drug and turned over to the Mercer County Sheriff's Office.

Correction

In a story last week about Antonio Guglielmi, police gave his address as 32 Humbert Street. The correct address is 33 Humbert.

Notes about the Delaware and Raritan Canal

The Delaware and Raritan Canal was completed in 1834 after two years of construction at a cost of nearly $3 million, most of which was furnished by Princeton men. It saved 150 miles in the trip by water from New York to Philadelphia, eliminated "rough waters off the Jersey coast, known as the graveyard of the Atlantic."

Because of Commodore Roben Stockton's participation it was known as "stockton's Folly" until its opening, when it brought great profits to the stockholders.

The canal was one of the great public works of its day. It extended from New Brunswick to Bordentown, 65 miles, and at its peak in 1860, some 1400 canal boats, both passenger and freight, used it. There were about 100 mules kept at the Basin to tow the barges.

In the 1830s, railroad building struck the country and by 1839, the Canal Company had built the Camden and Amboy, New Jersey's first railroad, along the south bank of the canal. About 1870, the canal began to lose freight business and by 1900 it had ceased entirely.

In 1867, the railroad tracks were moved to Princeton Junction and activities at Princeton Basin came to a close.

OBITUARIES

Elizabeth B. Van Dusen, 80, of 27 Armour Road, died January 29 at her home.

Born in Edinburgh, Scotland, she moved here in 1963 from New York City.

She is survived by her husband, Dr. Henry P. Van Dusen, president emeritus of Union Theological Seminary; three sons, John G. of Marblehead, Mass., Henry H. of Ossining, New York, and Derek of New York City; and five grandchildren.

The funeral was held in the Princeton University Chapel. The burial was private. Contributions may be made to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad.

Frank S. Coan, 85, a YMCA secretary in the Middle East for many years and a former resident of Princeton, died February 6 in Washington, D.C. following a long illness.

Born in Iran of Presbyterian missionary parents, Mr. Coan earned degrees from Williams College and Hartford Theological Seminary. After World War I, he served 12 years in India with the International Committee of the YMCA.

During the 1930's and early 1940's, Mr. Coan lived in Princeton while serving as the Executive Secretary of the English-Speaking Union of the U.S. During this period, he organized a tour of the U.S. by Gracie Fields to raise funds for British war relief.

After World War II, Mr. Coan served as the first U.S. Information officer to Afghanistan, and as a YMCA representative in Pakistan and Turkey for 10 years. Since 1957, he made his home in Stowe, Vermont, and Chapel Hill, N.C.

Mr. Coan is survived by his wife, Janet Tryan Stone Coan, formerly of Hartford Conn.; five children: Mrs. Stephen Nemtin, of Scottsdale, Arizona; Mrs. Nizar Ali Jawdat, of Orte, Italy; Stuart F.G. Coan, of Greenwich, Conn.; Nancie S. Coan, of Washington, D.C.; and Mrs. Jack Dunbar, of New York City; a brother, two sisters and ten grandchildren.

Interment was private. Memorial services will be held in the spring in Chapel Hill and in Stowe during the summer.

Alice R. Ruch, 92, of 150 Jefferson Road, died February 6 in St. Francis Medical Center.

Born in England, she lived in Princeton for 25 years.

Widow of Edward A. Ruch, Sr., she is survived by a son, Edward A. Jr. of Princeton, two sisters, Mrs. Minnie Fraley of Philadelphia and Mrs. Edith Ervio of Crescent City, Fla.; two brothers, John Griffiths of Delaod, Fla., and Albert Griffiths of St. Augustine, Fla.; a grandson and a great-grandson.

Burial was in the St. Mary's Cemetery under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Dora Doolan McGreal, 80, of Zion-Wertsville Road, Skillman, died February 6 in the Garden Nursing Home, Phillipsburg.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Rose Turnell of Skillman.

The funeral was held Saturday, with interment at the convenience of the family.

TOWN TOPICS is delivered without charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part or all of West Windsor, Lawrence, Hopewell, Montgomery, South Brunswick and Franklin Townships and Griggstown. At all newsstands, including TOWN TOPICS' office, it costs 15 cents.

and merchants with the approval of the Bicentennial Committee by contaeting Stanley C. Smoyer of Olden Lane.

Mr. Smoyer has been named by the committee to become its chairman, replacing William K. Selden, who was appointed chairman two years ago. With the activities of the Bicentennial Committee mounting, Mr. Selden cannot devote the time required and will serve as vice-chairman. Mr. Smoyer has retired from Johnson and Johnson, on whose legal staff he served for many years.

"DID GREAT-GRANMA QUILT THIS?": The answer to four-year old Meg Young's question is "yes," and Mrs. Irene Young will show others how in a six-week quilting class starting next Thursday.

QUILTING CLASSSET

To Benefit Nursery. Great-grandmother Irene Young of Princeton will teach a six-week quilting course for the benefit of her great-granddaughter's nursery school, the Presbyterian Cooperative Nursery School. The course will meet every Thursday from 9:30 to 11:30 in the Conference Room of the Palmer Square Church building beginning next week.

Mrs. Young began quilting as a small child on her family's farm in Indiana. She has taught quilting for the past five years. Every participant will complete a pillow and learn the basic stitches and procedures in quilt-making.

The fee for the course is $35, a portion of which Mrs. Young is contributing to the nursery school of four-year old Meg Young. Those interested should call Nancy Young at 921-8331 after 7 to reserve an opening.

LIBRARY TO CLOSE

For Washington's Birthday. The Princeton Public Library will be closed this Monday to mark George Washington's birthday. It will be the first time in five years that the Library has closed for this holiday.

Books may be returned that day in the Book Drop at the south end of the building. Hours for the rest of the week are 9-9, Tuesday through Thursday, and 9-5:30 on Friday and Saturday.

GOT A DOG LICENSE?

Township Offers Reminder. Princeton Township dog owners who have not yet obtained their 1975 dog licenses are urged to do so by the Township clerk. The January 31 deadline has passed, and a fine of $2 per month is now added to the $4 license fee, making the cost during February $6 and during March $8.

The license may be obtained in person at Township Hall from 9 to 5 or by mail. A rabies vaccination certificate valid for at least six months is required.

REFORMER TO SPEAK

Italian Leader Coming. Danilo Dolci, Italian reformer who abandoned a career in architecture to help impoverished peasants and fishermen in Italy, will come to Princeton for an address next Wednesday, February 19. He will speak at 8 p.m. in the Unitarian Church under the sponsorship of the Princeton Friends of Danilo Dolci, a group formed to support his work in western Sicily.

A follower of the Ghandian philosophy of non-violence, Signor Dolci has led collective fasts to obtain work for the unemployed and to dramatize the wretchedness of slums. He obtained help for victims of the 1967 earthquakes in the Belice area, and was instrumental in getting dams built in the valleys of Belice, Carboi and Jato, where water has always been scarce.

In the past 20 years, his work has developed into a Center for Study and Action, growers' and handicrafters' cooperatives, a radio station and seminars on such topics as urban planning, water resources and education.

A reception in honor of Signor Dolci will be held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Howard Mele, 988 Princeton-Kingston Road. A donation of $10 will be asked, and reservations should be made at 921-8595.

YWCA LECTURE SET

On Perils of TV Watching. Eliot Daley, president of Princeton Child Development, will speak on "T.V.: The Trojan Horse of Technology" on Thursday, February 27, at 7:30 in the "special events" series at the YWCA.

Mr. Daley will disucss the inner workings of the television world and the people who control it. He will also examine the effects of television on personal values and family life and offers suggestions to deal with these effects.

Non-members of the YWCA are invited. Tickets are $1.50 and reservations should be made at the YWCA office or by calling 924-4825, extension 22. Coffee will be served.

OPEN HOUSE PLANNED

At Princeton Youth Center. Members of the community are invited to visit the facility and meet the staff of the Princeton Youth Center, 102 Witherspoon Street, Saturday and Sunday. There will be refreshments and entertainment, including a fashion show, a drill team, a party and a choral ensemble.

The general open-house is scheduled between 1 and 5 on Saturday. During that time, a drill team of 17 middle-school girls will give an exhibition directed by Valerie Bosley, and youths will model the latest in spring and summer fashions for a "Blacks and Blues" fashion show.

On Saturday night from 9 to 12, there will be a party for high school students, featuring good food, music and space for dancing. Admission will be $1.50.

On Sunday at 3, the Association of Black Musician's Choral Ensemble will present a concert of soulful gospel singing. Admission will be $2.

LICENSE SUSPENDED

At K. of C. Home. The N.J. Division of Alcoholic Beverage Control has suspended the alcoholic beverage license of the Knights of Columbus, 111 Prospect Avenue, for ten days beginning Tuesday.

The club has pleaded "non vult" to a charge of serving alcohol on November 23 to persons who were not members or bona fide guests of members. The suspension commences at 2 a.m. on Tuesday and ends at 2 a.m. on Friday, February 28.

BIRTH DEFECTS?

Parents Invited. A pilot program for parents of children with birth defects has been launched by the Mercer County chapter of the National Foundation, and a meeting to discuss the program will be held next Thursday, February 20, at 8 p.m. in "Merwick" on Bayard Lane.

Hannah Fox, head of a new "Parent-to-Parent" committee, will outline the new program. Parents are invited to share the experiences that began with the birth of their children, and to talk about the direction a new parent group might take.

Advisors to the new Parent-to-Parent committee will be Dr. Leonard D. Policoff, director of the department of rehabilitation medicine, Princeton Medical Center; Mary Jean Metzger, director of the communication disorders unit at Merwick; Marial Hougaard, social service director of St. Francis Hospital in Trenton; Violet Franks, clinical psychologist affiliated with the Carrier Clinic; Nancy Manning, clinical psychologist at Trinity Counselling Service, and Mrs. Fox.

Additional information may be obtained by calling 882-3543.

CAR IS STOLEN

Police Have 2 Suspects. Morris Kinnan, 518 Ewing Street, last Tuesday morning at 1:30 reported to police that his 1972 Opel had been stolen from in front of his house.

A short while after Township police had sent out an alert, Borough patrolmen Victor Fasanella and Peter Hanley saw the car going west on Hamilton. They made a U-turn and gave chase but the suspect car had disappeared.

A subsequent search revealed the car was aban-

ALL ABOUT PORCELAIN

In Historical Society Talk. Oriental porcelain will be the subject of the sixth and final lecture in the morning series sponsored by the Historical Society of Princeton. It will be held next Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. in Pierce Hall of Trinity Church, Mercer Street.

Phillip H. Curtis, curator of Decorative Arts at the Newark Museum, will speak and show his slides. He has written several monographs on Tucker porcelain, and is currently writing a book on the subject. He is the author of "American Quilts in the Newark Museum Collection" and "American 19th Century Porcelain," which he wrote for the Encyclopedia of Victoriana.

Preceding the lecture, at 10 a.m., coffee will be served. Tickets ($1.50) may be purchased at the Society's headquarters, 158 Nassau Street, or at the door on the morning of the lecture.

MEETING DATE SET

For Medical Center. The annual meeting of the Corporation of the Princeton Medical Center will be held on Monday, February 24, at 8 p.m. in the meeting room of the Princetun Hospital Unit.

Any person who contributed $5 or more to the Medical Center during the calendar year 1974 or Life Members are members of the Corporation for the calendar year 1975. The election of trustees, as well as the transaction of other business, will take place.

Nominations to the Board of Trostees closed at midnight Saturday. Nominations made the nnminating committee of the board include Joseph B. Hill of Hopewell and Dr. Arthur Sherman of Princeton, and incumbents Dr. Marvin R. Blomenthal, Alexander K. Buck, Dr. William H. Burchfield, George R. Griffing, Mrs. Charles L. Jaffin and Dr. William M. Webster.

MEET THE CANDIDATES

For School Board. The Princeton Area League of Women Voters and the Princeton Regional Schools PTO are co-sponsoring a School Board Candidates' Night next Wednesday at 8 at Community Park School. The moderator will be Mary Tanner of the Lawrence League of Women Voters.

There are five candidates running for three seats on the School Board. The term is three years and has no salary.

There is one seat vacant for the Borough and only one candidate, Mrs. Robin Wallack. The Township has two vacancies and four candidates: Winthrop S. Pike, John P. Bailey, Dale E. Madden and Mrs. Elizabeth B. Smith. All candidates will attend the forum.

Each candidate will have three minutes to speak on any subject relating to public education in Princeton. Candidates will then debate those and other questions raised by the moderator. A round robin discussion will follow.

Grant for Family Service Agency to Permit Creation of Alcoholism Counseling Program

Family Service Agency of Princeton, a member agency of the Princeton United Fund, has been awarded a grant of $17,200 by the Mercer County Mental Health Board to establish an alcoholism counseling program for this area. The total projeet calls for a budget of $20,000 and fees, based on the agency's sliding scale, are expected to make up the difference.

Of the $17,200, the State Department of Health has provided $9,000 with the remainder coming from the Mercer County Board of Freeholders. The grant is another step in the County Mental Health Board's efforts to develop a more comprehensive plan of services to deal with the problem of alcoholism. Similar grants have been made to the Community Guidance Center in Trenton, Catholic Guidance Center of Trenton, and Family Service of Trenton.

Betts Gabrielsen, a graduate of Green Mountain College and Syracuse University, has joined the Family Service staff as alcoholism counselor She has been involved with the problems of alcoholism for several years and has received specialized training at the School of Alcohol Studies of Rutgers University, New Jersey Neuropsychiatric Institute, and the Sandin, Murray Sutherland School for Coordinators and Administrators, where she studied the installation and operation of industrial alcoholism programs.

Prior to coming to Family Service, Ms. Gabrielsen was employed at the Hunterdon Council on Alcoholism in Flemington. She has had experience in a variety of, counseling and educational functions pertaining to alcoholism.

In addition to Ms. Gabrielsen, William Rhoads, district director of the Hightstown office, will be assigned to the project on a part-time basis. The program will serve both the Princeton and Hightstown areas and will involve service to community groups and employers. Those interested in forther information about the program may call the alcoholism counseling unit number at Family Service, 924-2210.

VALENTINE FETE SET

For Senior Citizens. The Princeton Recreation Department is sponsoring a "Happy Valentine's Day" program for senior citizens of Princeton Friday at 1 at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 111 Prospect Avenue.

There will be refreshments, entertainment and other activities. For more information, call 921-9480.

DIRECTORY ISSUED

On Women in Education. The Higher Education Compliance Task Force of Central New Jersey NOW has published the first annual directory of women in New Jersey higher educational institutions who are active in Affirmative Action and related activities.

Ms. Carolyn Landis, coordinator of the task force, points out that the greatest resource for women who are suffering from discrimination in higher education is other women. The publication of the directory can promote resource sharing among women in these institutions and strengthen the loose network of feminists in higher education and related fields.

Questionnaires were sent out in two mailings to women in higher educational institutions. The publication contains the information supplied by the recipients and can be used in finding speakers, resource people, and individual counselling and advice. Additional copies are available on request from NOW Central New Jersey Chapter, P.O. Box 2163, Princeton, for 50 cents to cover cost of printing and mailing.

SPORTS In Princeton

SEASON WINDING DOWN

For PHS Quintet. All too soon, the season is coming to an end for the Princeton High School basketball team.

Friday afternoon at 3:45, the Little Tigers will entertain Hamilton, and on Tuesday, same time, they will be at Steinert. After that, only the seasna finale against Hightstown at home remains on the regular schedule.

Tuesday night, PHS went down to its ninth defeat in 12 starts, dropping a 64-62 decision to St. Anthony's in overtime.

A last second tap-in by Junior Oldham, PHS's high scorer with 19, tied the score at 60-60 at the end of regulation play. But a three-minute overtime was wasted, when all the losers could manage was another basket by Oldham. Pete Watson and Daryl Marshall contributed 16 points apiece.

This has not been a good season for the Little Tigers. Because of scheduling problems the school encountered, the season of 15 games is much too short. And when PHS was playing it wasn't winning—at least not as often as in the previous two seasons under Trotman.

Only a couple of stunning victories in the upcoming annual NJSIAA post-season tournament can salvage this year for Trotman and his team.

PADDLE TOURNEY SET

For Area Clubs. The Princeton Recreation Department, in cooperation with Princeton area clubs has set aside March 10-16 as the dates for the third annual Princeton Area Platform Tennis Championships.

Women's matches are scheduled to begin Monday, March 10, and finish on March 12, except for the finals which will be played on Sunday, March 16. The men's tournament will run Saturday and Sunday, March 15 and 16, with the finals Sunday afternoon.

RESIDENTS COMPETE

In National Squash Event. Several Princeton area players will compete in the 68th U.S. National Squash Racquets Championships to be held Friday through Monday in New York City.

Princeton University will enter a five man team captained by David Paige. Arif Sarfraz will compete in the national singles.

Charles Ufford will defend his national veterans title which he captured last year from Henri Salaun of Boston, who had defeated Ufford two years ago in the finals.

William Hardesty of the Central New Jersey League will also compete in the veterans division, and Dudley Clarke, another league member, will enter the senior singles.

Five Tiger Seniors Bypassed in NFL Draft Might Have Shot at Playing with Patriots

Southern California drew national attention last month when 14 of its seniors were drafted by National Football League teams--more than were chosen from any other college.

Not one member of Princeton's Class of 1975 was drafted, but as many as five of them may wind up next summer with a chance to play for the New England Patriots. All are expected to attend the Pats' rookie camp in Florida late in March.

First to sign was Walt Snickenberger, the Ivy League's MVP and the running back ranked 10th nationally last fall on yards gained per game (115.9). Snick was also contacted by the New York Giants but signed with New England and received a modest bonus.

Next in line was tight end Bob Harding, a 6-3, 230-lb. three-year letterman who played split end as a freshman and fullback in his sophomore year prior to his third and final conversion to the right flank on the offensive line. Joining this pair will be 235-lb. Tony Biagas, who was converted last season from guard to tackle, and 220-lb. Larry Cheshier, a defensive end.

Biagas, hobbled by injuries during parts of his senior year, was nonetheless credited by Coach Bob Casciola with displaying constant leadership. He and Cheshier shared the Caldwell Trophy for showing the greatest improvement on the team.

Cheshier's accomplishments are in all probability unprecedented in the latter-day history of football at Princeton. Cut from the basketball team here in his junior year, he asked Casciola for a tryout, and was given 10 days to achieve membership on the squad.

He not only topped that hurdle but by mid-season had won a starting assignment at left end. The first time he took the field in Palmer Stadium last September marked the first time he had ever played football- not only in college but in high school in Los Angeles.

Tom Schalch, defensive tackle and captain of the 1974 Tigers, is the fifth Princeton senior heading for the Patriots. Unlike the other four, he has yet to sign as a free agent but the 240-lb. Texan is expected to do so shortly.

Campaign to Combat World Hunger Reports Steady Progress Here as Support Widens

No one in Princeton is starving, but a diverse array of groups and individuals are spreading the word on how Princetonians can help combat the starvation of millions on other parts of the globe.

As part of this drive, William Sloan Coffin, Yale's well-known chaplain, will address the moral and political implications of hunger in a public lecture Thursday at 8 in the Senate Chamber of Whig Hall. Dr Coffin's visit is sponsored by Whig-Clio in conjunction with the Princeton Interfaith Council (PIC), an ecumenical organization of 15 religious groups.

The council has organized a carry-in, meatless supper to welcome the Rev. Dr. Coffin at 6 in the Unitarian Church. Everyone is welcome at the supper and also at an informal press conference beforehand at 4:30 in the lounge of the Princeton Inn.

The PIC has spearheaded the hunger effort in Princeton thus far. It announced two weeks ago that it has collected $14,500 from a two-month, meatless Wednesday campaign, in which the money normally used for purchasing meat was contributed to hunger relief.

The Rev. William Kirby, who heads the Community Concerns Committee of the Council, urged that, "people dig in and begin the long journey by fasting and translating that fast into money for hunger relief". The Council has called for a continuation of meatless Wednesdays and is also negotiating with the Princeton University dormitory and food service to implement a program of rebates for participation in this program.

To discuss where the $14,500 should be sent, the council has scheduled a town meeting for Sunday, February 23, at 3, with the place to be announced. The group will also consider other means of raising funds and other forms of political action that may be taken.

Ad Hoc Group Appears. A third group supporting the visit by Dr Coffin is the Princeton Ad Hoc World Hunger Committee. This committee, divided into informal study groups, is developing curriculum materials to be used in the Princeton and Montgomery schools. It also plans to sponsor speakers and teach-ins in order to raise consciousness about the world hunger problem and how it can be alleviated.

Group organizer Peter Shenkin, a graduate student at Princeton University, is concentrating on the basis for the "Limits to Growth" arguments and the global implications of U.S. agriculture policy.

Kim Drezner, of Cherrybrook Drive, and John Piderit, another Princeton graduate student, are meeting with representatives from the schools to suggest how teaching about the problem can be incorporated into a wide variety of existing subjects. These include geography, science (new ways to grow foods), religion, nutrition, and social studies. The aim is to show children how interdependent the world has become--ie, what we eat influences whether others starve.

Another study group is looking at the interaction between cultural and technological development and a fourth is working with the Interfaith Council and other community groups.

RUSSIANS DUE HERE

For Seminary Conference. "Jesus Christ Frees and Unites" will be the theme when 19 leading Russian churchmen meet their American counterparts at the Princeton Theological Seminary for a week-long conference, beginning with dinner on Tuesday. The conference is in preparation for the next Assembly of the World Council of Churches, scheduled to be held in December in Nairobi, Kenya.

The proceedings will include a reception on Tuesday at 8 in the Main Lounge of the Seminary's Campus Center. Delegates will be greeted by Seminary President McCord; the Rev. Dr. Ernest Gordon, Dean of the Chapel of Princeton University; and, representing the Institute for Advanced Study, Prof. Kenneth N. Setton.

At an all-campus convocation in the Campus Center auditorium on Wednesday, attention will be focused on "The Christian Church in the Soviet Union." The principal speakers will be Fr. Vitaly Borovoy, Protopresbyter and Dean of the Patriarchal Cathedral of the Russian Orthodox Church, Moscow, and the Rev. Alexander M. Bychkov, General Secretary of the All Soviet Union Council of Evangelical Christians--Baptists.

Orthodox participants will also visit the Tikhon Shrine in Pennsylvania over the weekend. The sessions will conclude with lunch on Monday, February 24, when the visitors will depart for Washington.

"ARCHITECTURE IS FROZEN MUSIC"

Nature created the setting; architect and owners, the house; and together they composed an impressive symphony! Set on a stunning four acre hillside and set off by its many rugged boulders and towering trees, the house was designed to flow with the land. Large areas of bronze tinted glass take advantage of breathtaking outlooks to south and west, small intimate balconies and protective "play decks" bring inside and outside together. Views are everywhere.

The house is spacious—with a living room whose ceiling soars almost three stories high, and six or seven bedrooms situated for the ultimate in privacy for parents and guests—yet intimate and warm in its use of materials, color and scale Throughout the house, from superb kitchen, tasteful baths, dressing rooms, numerous closets, two zone air conditioning to the smallest detail, only the best has been used. This is a home to enthrall all admirers of fine contemporary design. $265,000

PRINCETON BOROUGH

A rare mix--in-town convenience plus privacy. This unique semi-colonial on Library Place is tucked away at the back of a half acre lot barely visible behind a screen of exceptional trees and shrubs. Entry vestibule with cupboards, entry hall, most spacious living room with a huge window and adjoining enclosed porch, dining "l", bright kitchen, first floor bedroom, sitting room and bath. Upstairs, four corner bedrooms, two baths and walk-up attic for storage. Some extras—four fireplaces, brick terrace and walks, spectacular beech tree. Immediate ocupancy. $109,000. Also can be rented.

Very nice small lot in a fine location. One of the very few buildable lots in town. $24,000

This very solid English style house combines a most manageable size with beautiful detail and very convenient floor plan. An entryway leads to the large high ceilinged living room with fireplace and detailed plaster moldings. Two steps down is a cozy flagstone floored library with another fireplace and cathedral ceiling. An excellent dining room, pantry, kitchen, and maid's room complete the first floor. Upstairs is the master bedroom, with dressing room and bath, plus two other bedrooms each with its own bath. The third floor has two small bedrooms, a bath and storage. Four car garage. Professionally manicured shrubs and lawn. $140,000

In the western Borough, a big little house recently expanded and redecorated. Entry hall, spacious "L" shaped living room, dining room, large modern kitchen, breakfast room, laundry and lavatory; stunning step down family room with sky light. Upstairs, five bedrooms, three baths. Storage attic, flagstone patio, carport. All on a private lane within walking distance to everything. $140,000

HOPEWELL TOWNSHIP

Attractive building lot on Bayberry Road, a winding country road in Hopewell Township. A one and one half acre lot with approved percolation. Trees and meadow. $22,500

Near Washington Crossing on aaproximately 70 acres. Interesting old colonial with additional cottage, barn, etc. Investment possibility. $500,000

LAWRENCE TOWNSHIP

An interesting French Country house with a versatile floor plan to fit any size family. Light, high ceilinged entry hall, living room with fireplace, study with fireplace, full bath, formal dining room, large kitchen, extra half bath. Upstairs, 3 bedrooms and two baths including a master bedroom with fireplace. Plus a small separate apartment with its own outside entrance containing sitting room, kitchen, bedroom and bath. Two car garage plus carport. Large basement. $174,000

A classical doorway sets the tone for this charming 18th century stone and stucco house which has been so tastefully restored. Large living room with two fireplaces, deep windows and doors leading out to brick terraces. Beautiful dining room, modern kitchen and breakfast area. Master bedroom and bath, library, three other bedrooms and two baths upstairs. Fine woodwork, many working fireplaces, handsome floors. Outside--13 beautiful acres with huge shade trees, box hedges, swimming pool, two stone garden houses, and extensive lawns which were once a golf course and easily restorable as such. Three car garage with very rentable two bedroom apartment. $260,000

Cold Soil Road. Magnificent authentic stone colonial on 115 acres. Pool, barn and outbuildings. Asking $590,000

FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP

Griggstown. Four year old Regency ranch on 3 wooded acres. Three bedrooms, two baths, three car garage, living, dining, family rooms. Central air, burglar alarm. Excellent condition. $99,500

MONTGOMERY TOWNSHIP

A brick ranch on over 4 acres of wooded land, 600 feet of frontage on a rushing stream, 3 bedrooms, 2½ baths, large terrace, living room with stone fireplace, dining el, modern kitchen, full dry cellar with shop and play area, central air. A beautiful spot. $79,500

GO OUT YOUR BACK DOOR AND CATCH A NEW YORK BUS. Set back nicely on Castle Howard Court, this lovely spacious home was built by Hunt and Augustine and offers 5 bedrooms including large master suite with fireplace and den. The woods and professional plantings mean easy lawn care. Soon to be transferred owner will sell for 118,000

ANYBODY HOME? THERE WILL BE—SOON—for this five bedroom colonial is a fine buy for a particular buyer. Wooded lot, dead end street, full finished basement, air conditioning, fireplace and screened porch are some of the extra features here. Priced right in the eighties. Will you be the fortunate new owner?

GIVE THE CAR A REST AND LET THE KIDS BIKE TO EVERYTHING. Just two blocks off Nassau Street, this 7 room ranch has a full basement and attached garage. An ideal location and priced in the low sixties.

THEY'RE PROUD OF THEIR SCHOOL SYSTEM IN SOUTH BRUNSWICK TOWNSHIP. You will be too and you'll be proud of any of these three homes: One year old 3 bedroom ranch loaded with quality features; Quality built custom bi-level situated on a dead end street and offering many fine features plus a deck and in-ground swimming pool; fifty year old 2-story home with mother-in-law or income possibilities. They're priced right to move so now it's your move. Phone us now.

WANT TO OPERATE A RETAIL OR SERVICE BUSINESS FROM YOUR OWN HOME? We offer a 2-story house in Lawrence Township next to a shopping center that'll soon be constructed. Also a hundred and fifty year old brick home in Allentown that needs some work but is priced right for the astute buyer. Just reduced to high fourties.

COME OUT TO THE ROLLING HILLS OF MONTGOMERY TOWNSHIP and see these two homes--one a centrally air conditioned 4 bedroom, 2½ bath bi-level with a high on a hill location providing a nice view. It's been reduced to the fifties. The other is a nice four bedroom 2½ bath colonial with a fireplace and 2-car garage. You'll never have a neighbor breathing down your back as there's a golf course directly behind. Priced in the low sixties, the owner will listen to offers.

A Look at the Validity of Open Meetings: Costs as Well as Benefits May Be Incurred

The dark lessons of Watergate and the long New Jersey history of corruption in the back rooms of government are combining to create a citizen demand for more open government: public executive sessions, participatory planning, a good strong beam of light in corners which may be honestly dark, but are dark nevertheless.

In Princeton, the Regional Planning Board and Township Committee are particular targets for those who want more openness. Borough Council's agenda sessions have been open to the public for some years (although hardly any citizens show up).

Last fall, a new Princeton resident, Harlan Cleveland, director of the Princeton-based Program in International Affairs of the Aspen Institute for Humanistic Studies, wrote an article for "University: A Princeton Quarterly." Mr. Cleveland asked, "How does the planner get everybody in on the act and still get some action?"

Excerpts from his article follow, through the courtesy of "University."

"There was a time, celebrated in song and story," Mr. Cleveland begins, "when planning was done by 'planners.' Their numbers were tiny, their information scarce, their expertise primitive, the range of their options narrow, the reach of their power marginal, the scale of their actions limited. But they were at least in charge of the planning.

"In Aristotle's Athens, Confucius' China, Cicero's Rome, Charlemagne's Europe, and Jefferson's Virginia, the educated and affluent few did the planning and made the destiny decisions—actions that made the difference between war and peace, poverty and prosperity, individual freedom and collective coercion, minority rights and majority rule. But the uneducated 95 per cent or more, the 'Lower Orders' of slaves and servants and workers and tradesmen, were not expected and did not expect to join in the elegant conversations about policy..."

Mr. Cleveland then points out that modernization caused this "vertical" society to be supplanted by our present "horizontal" society.

"But when leadership is the province not of a few hundred nobles or a few thousand landholders but an aristocracy of achievement measured in the millions, participation in decision-making is not a club but a crowd. The primary puzzle of modern planning is revealed: How do you get everybody in on the act and still get some action?...

"There is no douht that enhancing the risk of public exposure will improve the private behavior of public executives. The moral of Watergate is clear enough: If the validity of your action depends on its secrecy, better decide to do something else."

"But there are costs as well as benefits in more openness." Mr. Cleveland continues, "An open meeting is like to be large. The larger it is, the higher the ratio of emotion to reason, nonsense to common sense. An open meeting favors simple formulations over complicated ones, certainty over ambiguity, the loud-mouth over the reflective private person. An open meeting is more like to generate confrontation than compromise, liable to result in action rather than action.

"In sum, the procedures of openness are well designed to stop things, and ill designed to get things moving—unless the consensus for action has been built in private ahead of time..."

"In most areas of social and economic and political concern, we are nowhere near the limits of useful openness. But the evidence is piling up that the very great benefits of openness and wide participation are being offset by the risks of making it difficult or impossible to get done the complicated things that have to be done if we are going to protect our surroundings, our bodies and our selves..."

"You will have noticed, in your own experience, that a person who disagrees with what you are doing will almost never say he or she disagrees with what you are doing. The complaint usually turns up in camouflage. You failed to follow the correct (that is, written) procedures; you did not consult his, or her, group, or at least not early enough or long enough, or with its authorized representatives; you neglected to prepare, in the proper form, a PPBS justification, an environmental assessment, a PERT chart; you omitted to quantify the costs and benefits request the Attorney General's opinion, call a public hearing, or provide the requisite number of copies."

"Such procedural objections, even trivial ones, can be devastating to a plan of action. Especially in a large meeting, most of those present are sufficiently inattentive, apathetic, confused, or hungry to favor postponement of action by means which do not require hard thinking about the substantive action proposed."

"The power of openness to smother action is not all bad. Many proposed actions ought to he stopped, and it's nice that we have invented so effective a way of blocking them. If the people gathered around the cross at Gethsemane had been able to participate with 20th century knowhow in the decision whether the Saviour should be crucified, Good Friday and Easter would never have made the Christian calendar. Some bright Apostle could readily have created a parliamentary impasse that even the Romans couldn't have untangled."

"The very great benefits of openness and wide participation are flawed, then, by apathy and non-participation, by muscle-binding legalisms, by processes which polarize two adversary sides, by an excess of voting and parliamentary procedure, by the nay-saying power of procedural objections, by the encouragement of mediocrity——and one thing more. It seems clear now that very wide consultation tends to discourage innovation and favor standpattism."

"The mythology of the matter has it the other way around More openness in decision-making is a radical litany; yet the multiplication of those consulted seems usually to side-track radical reform. An action proposal, especially if it is new and unfamiliar, will seem threatening or at least postponable to a large majority of previously uninvolved participants in the discussion."

"It is no accident that so many memorable public policy initiatives (in foreign policy, I think of the Marshall Plan, Point Four, Open Skies, The World Weather Watch, and The Nuclear Test Ban) began as the products of hunch and thinking-out-loud rhetoric, with most of the professional staff work and the domestic and foreign consultations following after. If the statesmen involved had consulted widely before launching them, some or all of these great ideas might well have died in the womb. Too many people, in Washington and abroad would have said, 'Let's study it some more.'"

"Bold initiatives for change are thus likely to be inhibited by wide-open debate about whether change is desirable, and in which direction. Yet let us again remember that openness is well designed to stop foolish change. Wider consultation would almost certainly have killed the Bay of Pigs operation, drastically modified the Vietnam escalation, and illuminated the grotesquerie at Watergate for the foolish scheme everyone, including the President, later judged it tu have been."

"The wise planner will not make a principle out of openness, or secrecy either," writes Mr. Cleveland in conclusion. "He, and she, will use openness to frustrate short-range end-runs by narrow interests around the public good. But the planner who expects bold and imaginative long-range thinking to come out of a town meeting had better look for some other line of work."

News Of The THEATRES

NEXT.....

"Kingdom of Earth." With "Mother Courage" barely launched, McCarter has begun rehearsals for the next offering by the theatre's company.

It will be Tennessee Williams' comedy, "Kingdom of Earth," scheduled to open at McCarter on Thursday, March 6, at 7:30 p.m. The playwright, delighted over the Michael Kahn production of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," has asked Mr. Kahn and McCarter to present "Kingdom of Earth" in this revised version. It will be given in premiere at the March 6 performance.

Marilyn Chris, Courtney Burr and Thurman Scott will be featured as a trio trapped in a house threatened by rising flood waters. "Kingdom" will have ten performances, closing March 16.

POP-ROCK

Hancock, Browne. Two artists will appear in the next few weeks to get McCarter's winter-spring session of pop and rock concerts off to a roaring start.

Jazz-ruck artist Herbie Hancock will come to Princeton for the first time on Friday, February 28 at 8 p.m. He'll be in Dillon Gym with the rock-soul group, Headhunters. McCarter is joint sponsor with the Princeton University Undergraduate Assembly for this one.

Can Street Theatre Be Saved for 1975?

Street Theatre's budget of $4,000 is apparently too large for Borough and Township budget-makers to swallow in this year of austerity, and the summer enterprise faces extinction.

Supporters are rallying other supporters to write Borough Council member Barbara Sigmund and plead for Street Theatre's life, in the highest traditions of "save-the-heroine!" melodrama.

Street Theatre, funded by the Joint Recreation Department, is an amateur group of about 150 kids, ranging upward in age from seventh grade. Workshops teach acting and tech. work, touring productions travel via mobile stage during the summer months to playgrounds and schools providing theatre experience, say Street Theatre supporters, for people who can't afford professional theatre.

Directors, assistants and workshop leaders are paid, but all performances are free. The group is democratically operated, and all the kids who belong participate in decisions. They decide what plays to produce and who directs them, what kinds of workshops to have—in lighting, sound, props, stage-managing, directing etc.—and how to handle the budget.

Supporters cite its value, not only as theatre, but as a positive outlet for young energies in the summertime.

Songwwriter-singer Jackson Browne will come to Dillon, making his Princeton debut, too, on Friday, March 14 at 8 p.m. His Gold Record hits include "Doctor My Eyes" and "For Everyman." Phoebe Snow will be his special guest.

Tickets for both Dillon concerts are on sale at the McCarter box-office, and through all Ticketron outlets.

HEY, KIDS!

"Popeye Follies" Coming. Eight original Popeye cartoons from the 1930s have been combined into "The Popeye Follies," and McCarter will show this extravaganza this Saturday in the Movies-for-Kids program but who needs to be a kid to enjoy vintage Popeye?

Two showings have been scheduled—11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Tickets will be on sale from 10 a.m. at the McCarter box-office.

The originals in the "Follies" are "Popeye Meets Sinbad the Sailor," "A Dream Walking," "Goonland," "Popeye Meets Ali Baba," "Can You Take It," "Clean Pastures," "What A Nightmare," "Putting on the Act" and the very first one—"Popeye the Sailor."

Max Fleischer was the animator for Popeye, drawing from the comic strip of E.D.Segar. The Popeye craze began shortly after the first cartoon and lasted some 40 years. Fleischer is regarded as one of the founders of animation and was the first to use live sets.

Theatre Intime's Current Production, "Lovers," Is Rated "Appealingly Off the Beaten Track"

Unlike many plays which hold your interest while you are viewing them but fade to indistinctness after you leave the theatre, Brian Friel's "Lovers" – the current offering of Theatre Intime at Murray Theatre – continues to haunt me pleasantly in retrospect.

Perhaps some of its abiding interest lies in the fact that "Lovers" is actually two short plays, and the contrasts they present are rather fascinating. In the titles of the plays – "Winners" and "Losers" – irony mingles with truth, and sorting out the irony from the truth adds to the pleasure of thinking back.

The young lovers in "Winners" never achieve the marriage which colors all their thoughts, so are they losers? Or winners after all? The couple in "Losers" succeed in marrying after a tempestuously thwarted courtship, but it is clear enough at the end that they can never be described as winners.

Interesting as the analyzing of Friel's theme may be, the chief strength of "Lovers" is in the characters. Mag and Joe in "Winners" and Andy and Hanna in "Losers" are quite ordinary people, but we get to know them so well that they are no longer ordinary. They are perhaps mainly Irish in the intensity of their feelings and the occasional lyricism of their expressions, as well as in their longing for a future brighter than the present.

A Friel mannerism which one quickly gets used to is the direct address to the audience. In "Winners" an unnamed man and woman act as a sort of Greek chorus telling us about the past and the future of Mag in "Losers" Andy himself with a wink and a smile fills in pertinent information before and after acting out the events.

A True Gem. "Winners" is a little gem of a play, bathed in clear light. To an open hillside Mag and Joe, both 17, have come with their books to study for an exam. They will soon be married, for Mag is pregnant.

An innocent hour passes, uninterrupted except by their own swiftly changing moods, adolescent quarrels and makings-up. Poignancy increases as we know about their future and they do not.

It is affectionately written and beautifully acted. Winnie Holzman and Mark Nelson have played parts for Theatre Intime before, but never have they been so absolutely right as in their Mag and Joe. The highest compliment I can pay them is to say that they don't appear to be acting at all.

Credit for their artfully natural performance must be shared with the director, Kathleen E. Shenton, whose sense of shading and pacing shows an understanding both of young people and of the demands of the stage. Jill Smolowe and David Loevner provide matter-of-fact contrast as the unemotional documentarists.

Glorious Revenge. "Losers" is more histrionic, more somber in its implications, and funnier in action. Andy is telling the story of his courtship and marriage to Hanna, under the shadow of her bedridden harpy of a mother. Old Mrs. Wilson is the eventual winner, but even in his losing battle Andy manages moments of glorious revenge and sly escapes.

Jon Lorrain is a delightful Andy, whether as an embarrassed suitor, a rough-and-tumble bundler, a drunken rebel in his mother-in-law's bedroom, or a quiet refugee in the back yard surveying his small world with a pair of binoculars. As Hanna, Kathy Mendeloff changes convincingly from a defiant daughter to a defeated wife. Wendy Grabel and Laurette Tuckerman are enjoyable in the always difficult task of feigning age and infirmity.

Kendall Crolius Paine has designed a simple and ingenious set with a sloping stage that serves both as an Irish hillside and as a second-floor bedroom. The lighting by Charles G. Stone II is thoroughly professional as always. It is especially effective in reflecting the moods of "Winners."

Brian Friel's Ireland is warmly human, and this production at Murray Theatre is appealingly off the beaten track. There will be six more performances, on February 13, 14 and 15, and again the following weekend on February 20, 21 and 22, all at 8:30 p.m.

—Herbert McAneny

The cast includes Rider students Denis Bellocq of Lawrenceville and Debbie Bellow of Princeton playing the comic couple, Prez and Mae. The Adler-Ross musical is directed by John Horvath, a fine arts major, who directed last year's musical comedy production of "I Can Get It For You Wholesale".

Tickets are $1 for students and $2 for adults and may be purchased during the day at the box office located in the lobby of the Fine Arts building or at the door. For reservations in advance, call the Fine Arts Department at 896-0800, ext. 368.

being given by Dr. Susan Brainerd on Thursdays from 7:30 to 10 p.m.

Mr. Sterling's students will spend an evening in New York visiting new theatre groups, and will explore avant-garde, story and street theatre. Ms. Cline teaches modern dance techniques and improvisation, and Dr. Brainerd is working with teachers and community service workers in a creative arts approach to learning.

WORKSHOP PLANNED

Eight Sessions For Actors. The Princeton Community Players have announced an actors' workshop beginning late this month to be conducted by Daniel Berkowitz, Executive Director of Princeton's Summer Intime and widely known both as actor and director in this area.

There will be eight two-hour sessions held in the Players' theatre at 171 Broadmead. Registration is open to the public (call 924-5976 before February 24). The fee for the course will be $20.

Mr. Berkowitz is a graduate of Princeton and did graduate work in the Department of Dramatic Art of the University of California at Berkeley. He later studied for a year with Stella Adler at her studio in New York.

Last summer he directed "Arms and the Man" and "The Lion in Winter" for Summer Intime. He has had wide experience with Shakespeare and Moliere and has also directed such modern plays as "The Hostage," "Billy Liar," "A Flea in Her Ear" and "A Man for All Seasons." In January he was a guest director at Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem, N.C., where he staged "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest."

Two Shows for Newman

Randy Newman will give an extra late show "in response to public demand" when he comes to Alexander Hall on Saturday, February 22. It will be an 11 p.m. concert.

The 8 p.m. show is sold out, except for obstructed-view locations. These two concerts, says McCarter Theatre, are Newman's only appearance this winter in the northeast.

MEETING TUESDAY

For Pennington Players. The monthly meeting of the Pennington Players will be held Tuesday, February 25 at 8 PM in Heritage Hall of the Pennington Presbyterian Church.

The program for this month's meeting will be excerpts from The Pennington Players 1975 Children's Theatre production of "The Butterfly That Blushed."

RIDER PUTS ON PLAY

"Pajama Game" This Weekend. The hit musical comedy of the mid-50's, "Pajama Game," will be presented this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 in the Rider College Fine Arts Theatre. Based on Richard Bissell's novel "7½ Cents," it deals with love and an employee campaign for a 7½ cent hourly wage increase in a small-town pajama factory.

Naturally, boy gets girl and the workers get their raise. And the audience is given a good time, largely devoid of soap opera situations.

Performance of Musicians from Marlboro Given Mixed Reception in Chamber Music Series Here

A group of musicians from Marlboro brought trios by Haydn and Donald Tovey, and a divertimento by Mozart to McCosh Hall on the University campus last week, as part of the Department of Music Chamber Series. Haydn's Trio in E flat major, Hob. XV:29, for violin, cello and piano, and Tovey's Trio in D minor, op. 14 (1903), for violin, English horn and piano, were followed after intermission by Mozart's Divertimento No. 15 in B flat major, K. 287, for strings and horns.

In both trios, the piano part was played by Mieczyslaw Horszowski, a venerable figure of over 80 whose hands are still supple and agile. Eugene Drucker, violin, and Denis Brott, cello, joined him in the Haydn, while Isadore Cohen, violin (recently here with the Beaux Arts Trio), and Randall Cook, English horn, performed in Tovey's piece.

A restrained interpretation of the first movement of the Haydn Trio began the evening. The tempo was just fast enough to qualify as the designated "Poco allegretto."

The strings concentrated on drawing full, round tones from their instruments, producing a heavy seriousness which poorly matched the more subdued piano performance. Neither approach suited the music's nature very well; the whole movement lacked spark and spice.

Problems Develop. Particular problems were the rather weak tone produced by Mr. Horszowski, and the overbearing power of Mr. Brott, whose brilliant capabilities as a soloist were apparent, but whose grand musical gestures in some passages of secondary importance showed him to be less attuned to balanced ensemble work.

The rest of the Trio was better executed. Mr. Horszowski produced a tender lyricism in the "Andantino et innocentemente" movement, and all three reveled in the robust, pulsating finale, where the pace was spirited and joyous. The only flaw here was at a couple of places where Haydn plays a rhythmic trick, and Mr. Horszowski obscured the effect by muddy pedalling.

Tovey's Trio was programmed in commemoration of his 100th birthday. Tovey is widely known as a musical critic and essayist, but this appeared to be the first exposure most people in the audience had to him as a composer. The flavor of the piece was strongly Brahmsian, in texture, pianistic idiom, melodic style and rhythmic technique.

Mr. Horszowski got a significantly bigger sound in this composition than in the other Trio, responding to the emotional swells and ebbs in the music. In this he was matched by Mr. Cohen on the violin, whose tone was always strong and clear; but Mr. Cook on the English horn, subject to the expressive limitations of his instrument and part, played on a maddeningly even keel. Compared to the technically challenging and rich-sounding violin and piano parts, the English horn part must have been ungratifying to perform. Its chief contribution in the composition was to increase the total sonority of some sections, to participate in some melodic trade-offs (which were very smoothly done), and to accompany the violin in thirds, sixths, and octaves.

Audience Interest Lacking. The piece was rather long and sometimes diffuse, but not unfathomable, clearly a late product of the romantic age. One wonders, though, if it would sustain enough audience interest to warrant programming it without the motivation of a centennial observance.

The string players in the first half of the program were joined by violist Philipp Naegele, double bassist Julius Levine, and French hornists Robert Routch and Michael Johns, for the Mozart Divertimento. Pieces like this, not always the vehicle for the composer's more profound ideas, can be risky prospects in a concert hall, but in this case a carefully worked-out performance made it worthwhile to hear. Unified dynamics, articulation and expression brought vigor to the sound, and the balance was excellent as horns and lower strings ungrudgingly accepted their roles as "second fiddles" to the fiddles.

While Mr. Cohen's first violin part carried most of the melody throughout the entire Divertimento, the Adagio movement was a virtual solo aria for him, accompanied by the other strings. In this as well as the recitative-like passages framing the finale, Mr. Cohen shaped the pace and mood convincingly, and the supporting instruments allowed him ample room for expressive gestures. When Mr. Drucker's and Mr. Naegele's moments occasionally came, they emerged from and rejoined the background texture with ease. The horn parts were full of the usual sustained tonic and dominant notes, but Routch and Johns made them sound anything but ornamental. A number of high notes, the horn player's particular glory, were bright and clear, adding sprakle to the sonority.

MUSIC In Princeton

MEETING TO BE SUNDAY

For Musical Amateurs. The next meeting of the Princeton Society of Musical Amateurs will be held this Sunday, at 5 at the Unitarian Church.

James Litton, organist and choir master of Trinity Church will conduct a reading of the Haydn "Theresa Mass" with chorus, full orchestra, and soloists Suzan Thompson, soprano; Cheryl Myers, alto; Lester Eric, tenor; and Daniel Pratt, bass. Harold Pysher will assist at the piano.

This reading is not a performance. Anyone interested in choral singing is invited to participate or attend. No auditions are necessary to sing in the chorus and there are no special requirements other than modest sight-reading ability.

There is a small charge for anyone without a yearly membership, to cover music and refreshments. For reservation or information call Mrs. Michael Ramus at 924-4266.

CHAMBER MUSIC SET

For Sunday Concert. Princeton's Collegium Musicum, the 17-member chamber music group, will perform at the Mercer County Community College theater on the West Windsor campus this Sunday at 4

The program for the afternoon will consist of P.H. Purcell's "Chaconny," Mozart's Concerto No. 4 in D Major, selections from "Acht Kanons" Op. 44 by Hindemuth, Serenade No. 2 in F Major by Volkmann and Rumanian Folk Dances by Bartok-Willner.

The Collegium currently features eight violinists, two violas, two cellos, a bassist, two oboes and two horns. The musical director, violinist Joseph Kovacs, a graduate of the Royal Francz Liszt School of Music, teaches at Rutgers and conducts the Princeton Community Orchestra. The Collegium has given numerous programs in Princeton in the Trinity-All Saints concert series and participates in the numerous choral performances of the two churches

Tickets for the performance are priced at $4 for the general public and $2 for students and MCCC alumni. To reserve seats, call the MCCC Office of Community Services at 586-4800, extension 227.

TOWN TOPICS is delivered without charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part or all of West Windsor, Lawrence, Hopewell, Montgomery, South Brunswick and Franklin Townships and Griggstown. At all newsstands, including TOWN TOPICS' office, it costs 15 cents.

FROM HARAMBEE: The University group, Harambee House Players, will launch their 1975 season with a play to be given next weekend at the Princeton Youth Center. Chico Alberl (standing) and Jemes Lindsey (seated) ere in the cast. (Danny Willlams photo)

HARAMBEE IS BACK

University Group to Perform. The Harambee House Players of Princeton University, are back on stage and will open the year 1975 with a presentation of "Sisyphus and the Blue-eyed Cyclops," by Garland Lee Thompson. The play will be given Friday and Saturday, February 21 and 22, at 8:30 and Sunday, February 23, at 7:30 at the Princeton Youth Center.

Gwen Foster, a Princeton University senior who uses the professional name Niamani, will direct. She is Artistic Director of Harambee House Players and project coordinator with the Frank Silvera Writers' Workshop in New York. She has been working with a variety of black theatre groups in New York and New Jersey.

The Frank Silvera Writers' Workshop was founded by and is directed by Playwright Thompson. "Sisyphos" was first presented at Actor's Studio West in Los Angeles.

GARDEN

Lenny. The tragic and often ugly story of the rise and rapid fall of a man regarded by some as one of America's foremost satirists is told with cold and brilliant harshness in this film directed by Bob Fosse.

Dustin Hoffman as Lenny Bruce is not as electric as he should have been but it is still a strong performance. It is Valerie Perrine, however, as his tragic, stripper wife who steals the show. The film has been adopted by Julian Barry from his Broadway hit play and is photographed in black and white--the latter an inspired decision giving the smoke-filled strip joints, the night clubs, police stations and court rooms the gritty look of a "Confidential Magazine" of the 1950s.

Hoffman, in a powerful performance, tries but ultimately fails to project the manic electricity of Bruce. Although Hoffman is unable to mold the brilliant style and frenetic components of Bruce into a satisfying whole, his recreation of some of Bruce's peerless routines–all unexpurgated–are well done.

The film traces Bruce's career from his earliest days as a stand-up comic in cheap strip clubs to his final years as a martyred champion of free speech. Much of it is grim. As the basically innocent stripper who later becomes pathetically involved with drugs, Ms. Perrine fully dominates the first half of the film with a complex and very moving performance.

The comic routines effectively break up the grimness and beneath their surface humor and perception, bits have been cannily chosen to bring out that Bruce's obsession with alleged "obscenity" was motivated by a desire to point out the absurdity of giving too much meaning to language. There is much in "Lenny" that will stick in audiences' minds for a long time to come

PRINCE

A Woman Under The Influence. All of John Cassavetes' films deal with misunderstood people attracted to each other for reasons they are unsure of. This is particularly true about his latest--and best: "A Woman Under The Influence," a riveting study about marriage in which love is amply present, and it is just not quite enough.

Gena Rowlands gives an award-winning performance as a highly-strong wife straying toward madness as she tries to cope with a loving but mis-matched mate. Pete Falk is no less good as the husband.

At first, the wife seems to be the film's great problem. Heavily emotional, she has no self confidence. When her husband is detained one night, her lonliness is so intense she goes to a bar and picks up another man. She is so spontaneous, so unashamed of adoring her husband, she can't understand why his affection isn't equal to hers. She is perhaps one of the most thoroughly loving women presented on film lately—and also one of the most hurt.

Falk is the convivial hard hat, who has blondered and blotted his way through everything, a clap on the back, an old joke, a night out with the boys. He has a complete lack of sensitivity. He keeps saying "I love you" as if it were enough and can't understand when his wife forthrightly tells him it isn't. Later, in a powerful scene that will leave audiences reeling, he is so unsure of his relationship that he organizes a surprise party to greet his wife after she's been released from a mental home.

The result is near chaos and just about the most original drama on marriage seen this year--including Bergman's "Scenes From A Marriage." Indeed, the funny thing is that the situation approaches farce so often that it isn't funny.

IT'S NEW To Us

LOOKING TOWARD SPRING

At Bellows. The groundhog has announced that Spring will be early this year, and the first signs have already begun to appear at Bellows. In spite of the mild winter, the bright colors and light-weight fabrics are a welcome sight.

Skirts are once again very much in evidence, and you needn't think of them only in terms of a mid-calf length. The accepted advice remains--wear what looks and feels best. For instance, you can choose a soft green or pink fabric printed with white butterflies in either a short culotte or in a fly-front knee-length skirt, $23 and $18 respectively.

All those comfortable, easy-to-wear, styles such as wraps, flares and dirndles (though not too full) are back. Gordon has a wrap skirt in a terrific multi-colored print of elephants and boats, $23, and by Sirette Sport there is a fully flared tangerine, green or yellow skirt with white dots. This skirt has deep side pockets and comes in a textured polyester and cotton fabric, $29.

This season also continues the return to natural fibers. Typical of this is the off-white all cotton flared skirt by Maurice Antaya. The fabric reminded us of a muslin, but with interest as there is a woven square design, $28.

Nothing is quite as versatile as a suit, and the renewed interest in skirts has fortunately brought these back on the scene, too. We especially liked a blue denim one with pink embroidered flowers on the pockets ,and both the blazer jacket and flared skirt can easily be used separately, $74.

Two other handsome suits are a nubbly emerald green one with gold buttons and an open weave across the bodice and around the cuffs; and a pink and coral polyester tweed trimmed with white braid. This second suit has a front pleated skirt and its own bow-necked white blouse.

Cotton T-Shirts. Although the skirt may be the fashion note this year, Bellows is well aware that women are not about to forsake the comfortable slacks they consider a way of life. There are slacks to match all the skirts mentioned, plus solids, Lilly prints, ginghams and Frank Olivier gabardines, $24 and up.

Cotton T-shirts are another strong favorite, and they look especially well when worn under a sheer blouse matching any of the skirts or slacks. Or if you prefer a solid top, Gordon has a good-looking polyester and cotton shirt jacket in white, bright yellow or green, $32.

On the way is a group of Qiana shirtwaist dresses in beautiful prints. Not only are they washable and packable, but they have a great price tag, $38 to $44. Also coming for spring are white and navy knitted wrap coats, cotton poplin raincoats in bright colors and even a reversible raincape, and caftans for wearing out or using as a glamorous beach cover-up.

Back in the Tree House, the fashionable skirt is mid-calf with a flounce around the hem. It comes in a denim or muslin fabric with a textured stripe, $23. Another choice is the half circle skirt, just below the knee in a soft pink or blue, $19.

The French Connection pants are naturally 100 percent cotton and in several tones of tan and white, $23. The T-shirts come in nylon and not a color seems to have been forgotten by Crazy Horse, starting at $8. We especially noticed the natural colored crocheted T-shirt and the long-sleeved coral or aquamarine one with a stripe of art nouveau ladies.

As always, when the fashions lean toward the natural side, accessories are most important. The Tree House has cotton scarves, print knee socks, and delightful hand-painted cotton or straw hats with houses, flowers, strawberries and many more designs.

In the main part of the store there are bright abstract printed Totes rainscarves (essential for spring showers), big sunglasses, and lots of white purses including a roomy sachtel with a zipper closing and a decorative green and red woven stripe, $33.

Bellows, located at 210 Nassau Street, is open Monday through Saturday from 9 to 6.

ART AND MORE

At Gallery 100. Although you might enter 100 Nassau Street for any of several reasons--an art break, a framing job, or an unusual gift, -- first and foremost Gallery 100 is an artists' store with supplies ranging from paste to wood-carving tools.

HARBINGER OF SPRING: This appealing giraffe, hand-painted on a cream colored nyesta nylon dress is bound to brighten any spring evening. This and a lion are currently residing in Bellows' Tree House.

Recently a new shipment of papers arrived, including some colorful French book endpapers in a marble design or in blue or red with tiny gold stars. There are also heavy French watercolor papers, velours, foils, rice papers with designs throughout and parchment, 35 cents to $4.65 per sheet.

PEOPLE In The News

Two Princeton University scientists, Frank H. Johnson and Osamu Shimonura, have created the first partial laboratory syntheses of a phenomena called bioluminescenee in which jellyfish, fireflies, beetles, shrimp, snails, and other animals give off cold or "living" light.

Bioluminescence has fascinated observers from Aristotle to Benjamin Franklin to Charles Darwin, and is an extrodinary ancient system of energy transfer known previously to occur only in green plant systems.

Prof. Johnson and Mr. Shimonura did their experiments with a Pacific Ocean species of jellyfish, research sponsored by the U.S. Office of Naval Research and the National Science Foundation. The technologieal applications of bioluminescence may include self-illuminating documents for use in clandestine vehicles and controllable guidance systems for planes and watercraft.

Airman First Class David L. Rieur, son of Mr. and Mrs. N.J. Rieur of Belle Mead, has graduated from technical training at Chanute AFB, Illinois, to become a U.S. Air Force mechanic. Mr. Rieur graduated from Montgomery High School in 1974.

---

Alan B. Cohen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cohen of Littlebrook Road, and a junior studying architecture at the University of Michigan, was a member of a three-person team that won first-prize in a bicycle rack design competition sponsored by two departments of the University.

Robert F. Schwenker, Jr., of Belle Mead, has been named director of research and development and elected a member of the board of directors at Personal Products, an affiliate of Johnson and Johnson in Milltown. Schwenker served as mayor of Montgomery Township in 1967.

Dr. Horton Davies, Professor of Religion at Princeton University and former head of the department of Church History at Mansfield College, Oxford University, has been named a Visiting Scholar at The Hun School. Professor Davies will lead weekly Hun seminars discussing the influence of Christian and Jewish beliefs on the individual, as reflected in the writings of Graham Greene and E. Weisel.

An authority on the history of Christianity, Professor Davies' special interest is the impact of Christianity on literature, the visual arts, and music. He is currently at work on the last of a five-volume series, "Theology and Worship in England," which traces Protestant and Catholic theology, worship, religious art and music from the Reformation to the present.

Norman Williams, 74 Allison Road, will organize the graduate legal program in land use law and environmental law at the new Vermont Law School, South Royalton, Vermont. Mr. Williams, who will be at the Vermont institution in the fall, will spend the winter term at the University of Arizona Law School in Tuscon teaching land use law and environmental law. He plans to return in the fall of 1976 to his position on the faculty of Rutgers University.

Mr. Williams, a Borough representative on the Princeton Regional Planning Board and vice-chairman of the board, served as Planning Board liaison to the Borough Zoning Board until January 1 of this year. His removal was the subject of political controversy.

Lucinda Ziesing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hibben Ziesing, 80 Edgarstowne Road, is a member of the Painters Theatre Company, which will premiere a new production "In Praise of Falling" in late February at Sarah Lawrence College. The professional company, an outgrowth of Sarah Lawrence theater course, develops performances to present as workshops in surrounding schools and communities. "In Praise of Falling," which will open at La Mama ETC in New York in early April, is a new kind of musical revue using songs, contemporary comedy, movement, actors, sculpture and paint.

---

C. Welles Fendrich, Jr., 122 Gallup Road, has been named vice-president, corporate development at Research-Cottrell, Inc. in Bound Brook. Mr. Fendrich will assist the president in establishing corporate goals and objectives.

---

Eric R. Kemmerer, a political science major at Jacksonville University, and son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Kemmerer, 4 College Road, has been named to the Dean's List for the fall session.

What's so great about this rate?

5¼% A YEAR

It's not the highest you've seen.
It's not the highest we've got.
So what's so great? It's the highest rate in the state paid on a Regular Savings Account . . . and everyone should have a Regular Savings Account because you can add any amount, anytime . . . and withdraw any amount, anytime. It's the only type of savings account that provides you with that flexibility. We also pay you this top rate from day of deposit to day of withdrawal, provided $10 remains on deposit to the end of our quarterly interest period. And that's pretty great too! And we also have:

5¾% 90 DAY PRESTIGE PASSBOOK
FROM DAY OF DEPOSIT
MINIMUM $500
MULTIPLES $100

Great choice of Savings Certificates too

It's New to Us

Other artists' supplies include paints, brushes, inks, batik, clays, macrame cord and probably whatever you are seeking. The Gallery is also continually exhibiting the work of various artists, in fact the shows change at three-week intervals and many customers have made this a regular stop.

Betty Steele, one of several people who keep Gallery 100 running smoothly, told us that "meeting new and aspiring artists is one of the nice things about this job." Artists stop by all the time, many of them with the smaller items that fill out the boutique aspect of the store.

Currently represented is R. H. Karol with his sculptures of women made from many circles and ovals of either wood or copper; Yoshi with her Batik fish pillows, $45; and several potters.

When it comes to smaller gifts, they tend to have an art nature. There are beautiful shells displayed on top of metal wires, easels in lucite, white, black and textured gold or silver on which to exhibit small works of art; highly decorative papier mache boxes from Kashmir; and some unusual and reasonably priced jewelry, prices start at about $5.

Glass Vases. Of all the gifts, the most striking are some Tiffany-style art nouveau glass vases. Each one is individually made, containing several luminescent colors, approximately $25 to $90.

There is also a small children's area, again with an art direction. We saw fine-line coloring books, small puzzles that double as party invitations, a dried flower press, weaving looms, a make-your own postcard kit, and a package of 770 stickers with which to create designs and pictures, $1 to $6.

A third, and highly important area of Gallery 100, is the custom framing which during February is available at a 10 percent savings. In addition, certain moldings are 20 percent off. Or if you like the Kulicke frames and wish to save even more, you can buy the pre-cut metal sections and make your own. They now come in brass, yellow, orange and black in addition to the tradition chrome, and two packages are necessary for a frame, $4.05 and up.

We also noticed lots of lucite frames to fit every photograph you've ever taken and several wooden, metal or velvet trimmed ones.

As a final note there is an active film department; Papers East heavy-weight wrappings, ties and boxes--all in bright solid colors or several sophisticated prints; and a series of books by Sterling Publishing to get you started at any craft ranging from candlemaking to metal and wire sculpture, $2.95 each.

Gallery 100, located at 100 Nassau Street, is open Monday through Friday from 9 to 5 and on Saturdays from 10 to 5.

IRS Offers Tax Help

To help New Jersey taxpayers get an early start on their 1974 Federal income tax returns, IRS District Director Elmer H. Klinsman urges residents to take advantage of new toll-free telephone service for tax help.

Taxpayers in southern New Jersey (609 area code) can get answers to tax questions or help in completing their tax returns by dialing 800-322-8680.

This toll-free IRS telephone service is available each weekday from 8:30 until 4:30. However, Director Klinsman reports that lines are very busy on Mondays and Fridays and at mid-day. The best times to call are early mornings and late afternoons during the middle of the week.

IRS toll-free telephone service will also be provided from 10 until 2 every Saturday from February 8 through April 12.

ART In Princeton

CONTROVERSIAL PRINTS

Whistler Collection on View. In 1879 James McNeill Whistler was commissioned by the Fine Art Society of London to go to Venice and create 12 etchings which would be sold by the society. Whistler became deeply involved with the city and remained beyond his contracted time. He created a much larger and more diverse body of work than originally commissioned.

When he returned to London, his work received a cool reception. He had created a personal view of Venice, ignoring the churches and the monuments and, instead, recorded everyday scenes of workers, laundry drying, and much of the debris that life creates. London was not ready for this type of artistic conception and greeted the collection with loud disfavor.

The Venice Collection, then the source of controversy, can now be seen at the Graphic Arts Collection in Firestone Library. Although the prints were spurned because they did not deal with the cliche, they have become important for this reason. They are also significant because of the technical changes Whistler's work underwent at this time. Expressive drawing technique, sparse line and creative inking techniques were not in use at the time and Whistler's innovations influenced many generations of printmakers.

The Venice Collection is also notable for its great beauty. Drypoint lines, carefully developed through eight or nine different states, are employed to create great tonal ranges and build intricate patterns of dark and light. Sensitive portrayals of architectural motifs and figurative works are coupled with canal landscapes.

The collection now on view is made even more interesting by the inclusion of etchings by several of Whistler's contemporaries. Views of Venice by Otto Bacher, David Young Cameron and Frank Duveneck complement the Whistlers through both similarities and differences in style.

At Gallery 100. Paintings by Jacques Kupferman are featured. They are apparently landscapes, if one is to judge by their titles. Color, brushwork and spatial relationships do not give much clue as to either the nature of the subject or the goals of the artist.

Although the brushwork is vigorous, many of the other amenities that we expect to find in surface painting are absent, and the work defies evaluation by this reviewer's standards.

At The Loft. Wood sculpture, pastels and oil paintings by three artists comprise the current exhibit at the Loft on Alexander Street. The artists are stylistically different, providing a great deal of visual variety.

Wood sculpture by Richard Posner offers a well executed blend of concept and materials. Posner works with respect for his wood and allows it to do its work well. Grain and surface interact together with carefully developed silhouettes. His forms are well conceived combinations of curves, sudden shadows and very exciting movements.

Jacqueline Chesley uses pastels to develop well constructed landscapes. Although other influences are apparent in her work, her use of color and sensitive compositions deserve mention. Her work demonstrates a concern with design that is realized in carefully balanced spatial relationships.

Chesley draws and interprets her subjects so that she is able to maintain the prettiness of the landscape while performing artistically sophisticated manipulations. Color is pleasing and consistently well employed to intensify landscape effect.

Oils by Antira Cuneo reflect her explorations into technique and style. Although there are a few skillful works which display this artist's potential, there is an uneven quality to the collection and an atmosphere of student discovery which does Ms. Cuneo no service.

At Gallery of Fine Art. The Princeton Gallery of Fine Art continues to display a variety of work by gallery artists. A stylistically diverse collection of landscape and figurative paintings are executed in many different media.

The gallery has also acquired another collection of George Grosz drawings. Pre-Nazi sketches of German life in an early formative style, classical portraits and a few of his drawings of life under Hitler are included. New York sketchbooks executed during his last years include studies of the more colorful types of New York denizens that captured Grosz's interest.

Traffic accidents occur most frequently when motor vehicles collide with pedestrians, with each other, overturn, run off the highway, hit fixed objects, animals, trains, etc. These are less likely to occur, according to authorities, if the operator of the vehicle knows and understands driving techniques and can obey the traffic regulations of the state and community. Accidents are most likely to occur when the driver is fatigued, sleepy, careless, discourteous, emotionally upset, or ignorant of traffic regulations.

Has any basketball team ever gone through an entire game and not scored a point?. . .It seems hard to believe, but there have been several games in basketball history when one team was shutout. . .And, some years ago, a Memphis, Tenn., church team set what must be a record when they shut out TWO opponents in one season, winning one game 78-0 and another 36-0.

Here's an unusual oddity. . .The New York Rangers of the National Hockey League have had the amazing total of 11 brother combinations playing for them in their history. . .The following brother combinations have played for the Rangers: Andy & Frank Buthgate; Gordie & Joe Bell; Doug & Max Bentley; Neil & Mac Colville; Bill & Bun Cook; Brian & Ray Cullen; Bryan & Dennis Hextall; Harry & Ron Howell; Gus & Bill Kyle; Lynn & Muzz Patrick; and Grant & Bill Warwick.

Now that Bart Starr has become the new head football coach of the Green Bay Packers, it's interesting to note that of all the men who have ever coached the Packers in their 55-year history, only two–Vince Lombardi and Curly Lambeau–have ever had winning records . . .So Starr will have his work cut out for him.

Tiger Five Holds To Second Spot in Ivy Race As Hopes Fade for Late-Season Upset of Penn

Princeton's basketball team, which is still very much in the Ivy League race on a mathematical basis, and Harvard and Dartmouth, which are not, will meet this weekend for the second time this season. A month ago, the Tigers dominated both without difficulty in Jadwin, but when teams still feeling the pressure of a title fight play away from home against others out of the running, upsets have a way of happening.

For reasons to which it is still seeking an answer, Harvard has been a major disappointment this season, but still fields the potential to knock off one of the front-runners. No better than 6-16 overall, the Crimson took Brown down to the wire at Cambridge Saturday before succumbing to the Bruins, 77-76, when Lou Silver missed the first of a one-and-one situation with four seconds left.

Unfortunately for the Tigers, Ron Haigler of Penn is the difference between the upset for which Princeton is desperately hoping and the one more likely to occur. If the Crimson succeeds in knocking off either of its two Ivy foes this weekend, it is far more likely to be the Orange and Black Friday than Penn the following night.

Haigler, the only really fine basketball player among the 96 on the eight Ivy squads this winter, provided 57 points for the Quakers in his team's one-sided defeats of Columbia and Cornell, thereby taking a solid lead in the individual scoring race. Nothing Princeton's two big men, Jim Flores or Lon Ramati, can do between them will match Haigler's performances in the stretch run.

Dartmouth, victor in only five of its 18 games this season, has managed to defeat Columbia at New York by a point and Yale at Hanover by six in the seven league games it has played to date. If the Tigers face the Green with success against Harvard behind them, chances of an upset Saturday will be small.

Thereafter, only four Ivy games are left for Penn, Princeton and Brown. The Tigers will travel again the weekend of February 21-22, taking on the Cornell and Columbia quintets which they have just defeated, with Penn as usual making the identical swing those two nights. Brown has the biggest burden on the final weekend of the year, coming to Princeton Friday, February 28, and facing Penn in the Palestra the following night. If form holds, it will be a one-two-three finish for Penn, Princeton and the Bruins, and about all the Tigers will have to cheer about as a result of their fourth straight year in second-place is the diploma Ron Haigler will get in the spring.

REMEMBER WHEN?

Cornell Game a Throwback. Gas rationing was a way of life, the old University Gym had a year to go before it burned, and the Allies were still plotting how to cross the English Channel. It was February, 1943, when a basketball team which did not resort to a stall last scored less than 29 points against Princeton.

When Cornell managed only 29 in Jadwin Gym Friday night, a search through the record book revealed that in the final week of the abbrieviated 1942-43 season, Princeton (then coached by Bill Logan because Cappy Cappon had left to serve in the Navy) defeated Harvard, 40 to 25. Since then, outmanned Dartmouth and Penn teams used stall tactics in an effort to keep a Tiger quintet that eventually rolled to a 25-3 season from breaking the game open early. The losers literally held themselves to 16 points apiece by refusing to shoot when they had the ball--Princeton managing 30 against the Green and 25 against Penn.

SPORTS In Princeton

No opponent, however, has played against the Tigers and managed as few as 29 points while trying to find the basket, until Cornell's sputtering offense ground almost to a halt on encountering the Tiger defense--statistically one of the ten best in the nation. It was even more surprising in view of the presence on Cornell's quintet of a 6-6 junior college transfer--Maynard Brown--who came into action with a per-game average of 23.7, tops in the Ivy race. Confronted by Barnes Hauptfuhrer, Brown managed just nine.

So one-sided was the affair that Princeton could actually have won the game without scoring a point in the second half. The Tigers took a 33-16 margin into the locker room, and then proceeded to limit the visitors to 13 points in the final 20 minutes.

Armond Hill scored 14 of Princeton's 59 to lead everyone and Coach Pete Carril substituted so freely that two of his players reached double figures in a reserve capacity. Sophomore Lon Ramati produced 12 for a career high and classmate Mark Hartley added 10.

Lions in Trouble, Too. Next night, Columbia started so badly that for a while it threatened to erase memories of Cornell's ineptness. With eight minutes gone, the last-place Lions were trailing, 17 to 2, having connected on just one of their first 13 shots.

Inevitably, the law of averages began to react, and during the last half of the opening period, the visitors actually outscored their tormentors, 22 to 17. That made it a 34-24 differential at the intermission, but the losers were never that close again.

A tap-off feed to Tim Van Blommesteyn gave Princeton its first basket three seconds into the final round, and the margin rose rapidly--to 46-30, then 64-39 and finally to a 27-point spread, 77-50 with five minutes to go. Both coaches emptied their benches, and the game ended 86-67.

Hauptfuhrer on 9 for 17 shooting and 7 of 8 free throws was top man with 25. Four of them came on an unusual four-point play--a layup that Barnes converted on a fast break and a two-point foul opportunity because the referee ruled that the contact was intentional.

Hill with 20 and Mickey Steurer with a dozen were also in double figures. The Tigers shot a fine 58 percent, had a mighty 41-24 lead in rebounds and were charged with only 11 turnovers, all fine statistics when confronted with the kind of play generated by a team that is losing for the 18th time in 21 games.

HOCKEY TEAM AT HOME

For Next Five Games. An opportunity to make sure that they finish ahead of at least two teams in the Ivy race will confront Princeton's hockey players Friday night when they face Dartmouth at 7:30 in Baker Rink. The Tigers opened their season with a 4-3 triumph over the Green at Hanover, and must repeat this success if they are to outrank any opponent beside winless Yale.

Like Princeton, Dartmouth does nothing consistently on ice. The New Hampshire sextet has defeated Penn and Yale at Hanover and took Cornell into overtime there before losing, 7-6, but has won only four times in 17 tries. It will, however, meet the Tigers (4-9-2) on about even terms here, where the Orange and Black has yet to win this season.

Next night, the best team in the east and one of the top four or five in the nation will be on view. Harvard (16-2) is in a class by itself, presenting depth rarely matched on a college hockey team and fine balance to go with the best goalie to be found east of Michigan and Minnesota. He is Brian Petrovek, a sophomore who took the job away from a pair of experienced varsity holdovers and is currently boasting a brilliant goals-allowed average of around 2.4.

The Tigers will play their third league game in five days when Brown comes to Baker Rink next Tuesday night. The Bruins won the first meeting between the teams last week, 3 to 1, and are leading the hopeless chase of Harvard, to which they have already lost both their league games.

Yale Finally Beaten. It took the Tigers two shots at the team with the worst Division I record but they finally trimmed Yale. It was a 6-5 final at New Haven Saturday night, Princeton came from behind three times to keep intact Coach Jack Semler's record of never having lost to the Blue at the varsity or freshman level.

A pair of goals by Done Fisher (raising his total against the Blue in the two games last week to four) and tallies by Mark Stuckey and Kris Kollevol matched four by the home team in the early going. The first period ended in a 2-all tie and the second at 4-4.

The Blue, which had vastly outplayed Princeton in the third round here on February 4, when it rallied with two goals to earn a 4-4 overtime tie, then went in front for the third time at 1:09 of the final period at New Haven. Junior wing Craig Dahl not only brought the Orange and Black even for the third time with a goal at 10:07, but put them in front at 15:15.

Sophomore goalie Mike O'Leary made the thin margin stand up, kicking out the astonishing total of 58 shots during the 60 minutes. Four of these came without the aid of his stick in the final 30 seconds when it had been batted away in a collision.

The Tigers scored first at Providence Friday night but that was the extent of their achievement. Rick Friesz, assisted by Gary O'Meara, put them in front at 17:27 of the opening round.

Brown drew even at 2:35 of the middle period and put the only two shots in the net during the third. The losers managed only 23 shots on goal to 37 for the Bruins.

POE CUP AWARDED

To Schalch and Snickenberger. The awarding of the John Prentiss Poe Cup to defensive tackle Tom Schalch and halfback Walt Snickenberger highlighted the annual Princeton University Football Awards Dinner.

The Poe Cup is presented each year to that senior or seniors "for all around ability and character," and is considered Princeton's highest football prize. Schalch, who captained the team last fall, was an outstanding performer on defense for the past two seasons, while Snickenberger was the Tigers' leading rusher and received third team All-American honors.

Three other trophies were also presented at the awards dinner. Sharing the Charles W. Caldwell Memorial trophy for "the greatest improvement in football at Princeton" were offensive tackle Tony Biagas and defensive end Larry Cheshier, who played football for the first time during his senior year.

The Dr. Harry R. McPhee Award presented "for demonstrated qualities of durability and fortitude," went this year to defensive tackle Dale Spiegel, whose desire and hustle were instrumental in the Tigers posting a 4-4-1 record this season. Special coaching awards were given to tight end Bob Harding and linebacker Bruce Schirmer.

Quarterback Kirby Lockhart and running back Bobby Isom were also honored at the dinner, receiving the Donold B. Lourie Award for "ability, conduct and attitude" as freshmen.

PDS FIVE ROLLS

With Pair of Upsets. The Princeton Day School basketball team produced two upsets last week over Pennington, 56-48, and Peddie, 58-56, sandwiched around a runaway win over Admiral Farragut by 77-43.

In both upset victories, PDS suffered a height disadvantage yet convincingly controlled the rebounding, with Randy Melville turning in two outstanding performances. Against Peddie, Melville had 20 rebounds, and against Pennington, 18. Coach Alan Taback called the 6'3" Melville, "one of the most natural high school rebounders I've seen", citing his great hands and lateral movement.

Melville's 12 offensive rebounds against Pennington also helped produce the scoring PDS needed to overcome a 17-12 first quarter deficit. Melville scored 18 points on frequent follow-ups, while Frank Konstantynowicz added 15 and Bill Martin 12.

Meanwhile, the PDS man-to-man defense was "limiting them to one not-so-great shot", said Taback. In particular, Martin held Pennington's scoring star Reese Cramer to 8 points, while Konstantynowicz and Baggitt also kept their forwards from penetrating.

A Breather. Two days later, PDS took a breather against Admiral Farragut, letting the subs play the entire second half. Billy Goldman and Konstantynowiez with 14 points each were high for PDS in a game Taback preferred not to discuss in detail.

But Taback wanted to talk about his club's win over Peddie, a team that had beaten Lawrenceville by 19 and one that Taback had called earlier "the best in the area". What's more, Peddie ran off to a 19-11 first quarter lead with a pesky press and a fast-paced, one-on-one style of play.

But PDS refused to fold. It regrouped and began attacking the press methodically, yet aggressively, converting good shots into scores. Peddie began to shoot impatiently, and PDS took the lead, opening it to seven points with a minute remaining.

In the final minute, however, PDS tried to give the game back committing two fouls that Peddie made good for three-point plays. After a PDS foul shot with 14 seconds left, Peddie managed to get the ball on the rim twice more, but to no avail.

Goldman Leads Way. Billy Goldman sparked the second-half surge with six-for-six shooting and six rebounds, while Melville contributed 15 points, and Konstantynowicz had 13. Bill Baggitt held Peddie's 6'8" center to 13 points and only one tip-in shot. Martin and Keith Thomas were also menacing on defense.

After meeting Montclair Academy on Wednesday, PDS will face West Windsor High School this Thursday at home and Rutgers Prep at home next Wednesday. Rutgers Prep is 17-3, ranked second in the state for prep schools, but Taback thinks they're "beatable"

On Monday, PDS ran its record to 12-5 by defeating hapless Solebory School of New Hope, 82-47. That same evening, PDS learned that it had been seeded second for the upcoming state tournament in the prep school B division behind Rutgers Prep. The seeding means that PDS will have a first-round bye and then meet the winner of Wardlaw versus Morristown-Beard on February 26.

Against Solebory, Konstantynowiez led the way with 21 points, followed by Baggitt and Martin with 14 each. Randy Melville continued his sensational rebounding pulling down 20 in only 21 minutes of play. And the aggressive defense almost achieved its goal of a shut-out quarter by holding Solebury to two points in the second period

PDS SKATERS SPLIT

Lose Re-match to Rye. After an impressive 8-5 win over Seton Hall on Wednesday, the Princeton Day School hockey team traveled to Rye, New York, and absorbed a very physical 4-1 defeat from its country day school rivals. The split kept the PDS record even at 6-6.

Coach Aubrey Huston, disappointed that his team's solid play is not producing more wins, commented, "I'm going to try some different alignments, splitting up the defensive pairings and switching the lines. We're not playing badly", he continued, "so we should stay closer to the big teams".

The teams Huston has in mind are St. Georges and either Hill or Lawrenceville, all of whom will participate in the PDS Invitational Tourney on February 21 and 22. Before that, Huston can experiment with his new alignments today Thursday against Brick Township High School, tied for the state high school lead and earlier winners over PDS by a 7-1 spread. Lastly, PDS will try to make it two straight over Wissahickon when it meets them at home next Wednesday, having beaten them 4-3 in Philadelphia last December.

Last week's games demonstrated the pattern Huston spoke of. PDS handled Seton Hall easily thoroughout the game, outshooting them by roughly 60 to 18. Tom Moore had four goals, linemate Bill Erdman had one, and Mark Blaxill, Mark Zawadski and David O'Connor also added scores. Defenseman Tom Brown had two assists.

One For 69 Shooting? But against a stronger opponent such as Rye, PDS couldn't convert the big opportunities. "It seemed like all night long the puck was dribbling by the corner or lost among skates and prostrate defenseman in front of the net", Huston recalled. He added, "The scorebook says we took 69 shots but I can't believe it".

As it was, PDS was intimidated by Rye's hard-hitting style, missing six power play chances in the final period alone. But by then Rye

Tennis Tourney Here

The sixth annual Princeton Intercollegiate Invitational Tennis Tournament will be held at Jadwin Gymnasium from Friday through Saturday, February 21-23.

The tournament will be highlighted by the return of two-time singles champion Manuel Diaz of the University of Georgia. Diaz, an All-American last year, won four collegiate titles in 1974 including the Princeton Invitational.

Several outstanding teams have already accepted invitations to compete including Virginia, which had last year's doubles champions; South Carolina, Clemson and Penn State.

was already ahead, 4-1, thanks to three breakaway goals Tom Borns had the only goal for PDS, in the first period, while Ditch Gordon had 29 saves.

PLUNGE CONTINUES

For PHS Matmeo. Defeats at the hands of West Windsor and Hopewell Valley last week pushed the Princeton High School wrestling team deeoer in the loss column. The imbalance now reads nine losses, one victory.

Of its two remaining dual meets against Trenton and Delaware Valley, the Little Tigers will have the better chance by far against Trenton. In normal times, Trenton would have been little more than a warm-up exercise for PHS.

But these are not normal times. PHS is in the throes of its worst season and Trenton, which took up the sport only a few years ago, is making rapid strides. The two teams will meet next Wednesday afternooo at 4 in Trenton.

This Wednesday, PHS was scheduled to oppose Lawrence High School in the Cardinals' gym, starting at 8. It will end its season February 22 against powerful Delaware Valley at home. As an example of Delaware's strength, it destroyed Ewing, 55-0, in its last outing.

Two Pins for PHS. PHS collected two pins and three decisions against visiting West Windsor Saturday, but it wasn't enough as the Pirates, competing for the first time this year, ran their record to 8-3.

For Princeton, Dave Wilson pinned Keith Geisel in 5:43 in the 115-pound class and Greg Robinson pinned Alex Ming in 5:07 in the 135-pound match. Peter Kahn (115-pounder) won a 7-1 decision, Nohman El-Meligi (141) captured a 6-0 decision and Jim O'Grady (148) won, 9-2.

For West Windsor, Rich Holcombe (13-1) won an 8-3 decision over Fred Eiker in the 158-pound match to hand Eiker one of his few setbacks of the season. His brother, Chris, (13-0-1) defeated George Pezdirtz, PHS 188-pounder, 7-0.

The victors started with a 12-0 lead as freshman John Houtenville pinned Princeton's Tom Cawley in 23 seconds--his ninth first-period pin of the year--and Dan Hollway pinned Bob Ellis in 1:42 in the 108-pound class. Houtenville wrestles in the 101 pound division.

In the closest bout of the night, Daryl MacPherson of West Windsor edged Paul Soderman, 2-0, in the 170 pound class.

Hopewell Wins, 34-15. Earlier in the week, Hopewell Valley, 9-2, and undefeated against county foes, defeated PHS, 34-15. Once again, the Bulldogs were able to capitalize against Princeton's weakness in the light and heavier weight classes.

After Hopewell registered a pin and a decision in the first two matches, PHS came back to win decisions in the next four to take a 12-9 lead. Wilson won, 4-0; Kahn won, 5-1; Coffin won, 5-2, and Greg Robinson won, 8-4.

Eiker got Princeton's last victory, winning 5-2 over Hopewell standout, Jeff Burd. Meantime, Hopewell was scoring pins in the 141, 148 and heavyweight bouts.

PHS MATMEN LOSE BY 3

Forfeits Decisive. Against Peddie Monday in Hightstown, the Princeton High School wrestling team ran up the most points it has all season, but it still wasn't enough to prevent the home team from edging the Little Tigers, 33-30.

Both Dave Wilson, 115-pounder for PHS, and Peter Kahn (122) won by forfeit. In addition, Peddie did not have a man to wrestle in the 108-poind class, but, to PHS coach Tom Murray's chagrin, neither did PHS when Robert Ellis failed to show up for the meet. The result: both teams were awarded six points. For PHS, it meant the difference between losing its tenth dual meet of the season and winning its second.

Peddie's generosity continued to overflow. It forfeited another six points in the 158-pound class when its man failed to make weight. Jeff Achey, filling in for an ailing Fred Eiker, wrestled an exhibition match anyway and lost.

To its 24 points it won by forfeit, PHS added six more when Nohman El-Meligi ?

To its 24 points it won by forfeit, PHS added six more when Nohman El-Meligi (141 pounds) and Jim O'Grady (148) both won decision. Murray commented that O'Grady, a sophomore transfer from Notre Dame High School, has really come along as the season progresses.

PHS led, 30-21, after O'Grady's win and Peddie's forfeit in the 158 pound class. Peddie, however, picked up 15 points and the match in the last three bouts as Paul Soderman (170) and heavyweight Ray Brower, both wrestling for the first time this season, were pinned, and George Pezdirtz, another newcomer in the 188 pound class, lost a decision.

TWO MORE FOR HUN

Mitchell Here Tuesday. The Hun basketball team wasn't going to be caught a third time.

A week ago, Hun lost two overtime games in a week. Friday against visiting Germantown Friends, leaders of the southern division in the Penn-Jersey League, Hun saw a tenuous lead slip away in the final period and the two teams finished even at 54.

In the overtime period, Nick Brady tallied five of his 11 points as Hun prevailed, 66-63. "Brady got the points," commented Hun coach Dave Leete, "but most of them were set up on passes from (Tony) Trani." Hun's record is now 13-5.

Next, Hun will travel to Friends Central for a Friday afternoon game and will then play host to Mitchell Prep Tuesday afternoon at 3:30. Friends Central trails Germantown by only a half game in its division, so the Red Raiders can expect another tough game.

This Wednesday, Hun was scheduled to play at Perkiomen.

Evenly Matched. Hun and Germantown battled on even terms throughout their game, as Hun led by one at the half. The same five who have carried the attack for Hun scored all 66 points against the Quakers. Freshmen Ron Payton, who gives every indication that he will go on to become Hun's all-time high scorer, led Hun with 23.

Trani, the team leader, was outstanding in every phase of the game, contributed 19. Both he and Payton are averaging almost 20 points a game. Brady had 11, Terry McEwen 8 and Mike Troyanovitch, 5.

Earlier in the week, against a weaker Academy of New Church team (4-6), Hun emptied its bench in winning, 84-58.

In double figures were Trani (26), Payton (14), McEwen (11) and Brady (10). Hun outscored the losers in every period.

HUN FALLS, 89-85

In Double Overtime. Before the tap-off, Hun coach Dave Leete had predicted it would be a tough game. But even he probably had no idea of the protracted battle that was in store for his Red Raiders when they visited Rutgers Prep Monday.

The home team took advantage of a 23-11 margin at the foul line to defeat Hun, 89-85. Before that, however, on two occasions desperation shots by Hun with seconds left forced the game to go on.

Freshman Ron Payton's jumper with two seconds remaining earned Hun a 70-70 tie at the end of regulation time. In the first three-minute overtime both teams scored eight points. Tony Trani's 45-foot desperation from out in left field at the buzzer sent the game into its second overtime.

Trani led Hun with 34 points, followed by Payton who had 27. Rutgers' Todd Milligan led all scorers with 38. It was the second time this season that Hun, 13-6, has lost in double overtime.

RIDING CLINIC PLANNED

With Visiting Equestrian. Princeton Riding Center, Meadow Mouse Farm, will host a "dressage and jumping clinic" this Sunday between 12 and 3. Internationally known horseman Major Jeremy Beale will instruct, criticize and encourage each rider.

Other Sports on Page 16

The participating equestrians, all from the Princeton environs, will be Thora Faigle, Kathy Garland, Nancy T. Gilvarg, Kathy Shays and Joanne Spain. Each is familiar with the three phases of eventing--dressage, cross country and jumping--and have competed in many East Coast horse trials.

Major Beale is currently the director and chief instructor at Morven Park Equestrian Institute in Virginia. He was a member of the British Equestrian Team from 1957-64.

BILL BROWN SURGES

Moves Into First. With a pair of decisive wins last week, unbeaten Bill Brown and Company moved past idle Joint Effort by a half game in the Adult Recreation League basketball standings. Bill Brown also sports both the top offensive and defensive averages in the league, and two of its players rank one and three in the individual scoring, according to statistics released by the Recreation Department.

Joint Effort, also unbeaten, ranks second in team offense with 75.9 points per game and fourth in team defense, allowing an average of 60.7 points per game. Bill Brown is averaging 77.7 points per game versus 55.7 allowed. The two teams will meet in a showdown on February 26.

The season scoring leader is Bill Brown's Dennis Wilson with a 27.4 average, followed by Mike Maguire of Ivy Inn with 20.7 and Frank Scott of Bill Brown with 20.4. Bob Slaughter and John Bailey are seventh and ninth respectively in the scoring derby with 16.5 and 15.6 averages.

On Monday, Conte's Bar produced a near-perfect first three quarters of play and a resounding 50-26 lead over the Librarians. Conte's rebounded well against a taller Librarians team, played a smart man-to-man defense and passed sharply for the inside shot.

Except for effective offensive board work by Chris Chambers (18) the Librarians could not buy a shot for the majority of the game. Conte's scoring chores were traded around between Jim McCleod (17), Tony Watson (10), Tom Wideaer (10) and Bill McQuade (10) to wrap up a 62-44 win.

Bill Brown had little trouble in rolling up its sixth straight victory by defeating an undermaned Boro Bandits team, 81-62. Bill Brown pulled away easily led by the rebound work of Dennis Wilson, Joe Brokaw and Frank Scott.

Wilson scored 20 points with exceptional 1st half shooting, while George Gervin provided the scoring punch for the Bandits with 26 points, followed by Steve Towns who tallied 14. Joe Brokaw added 16 points for Bill Brown.

On Tuesday, Lyons Seafood used a good pattern offense coupled with some opportunistic fast breaks to wear down the Outcasts, 75-46. Except for rebounding and 16-point scoring of Ed Vernon, the Outcasts had little to cheer about. Lyons scored almost at will as Milt Gaylord scored 16 and Lyons put 12 men into the scoring column.

Next, Bill Brown played their most explosive game of the year by defeating Conte's Bar, 77-52. They could do no wrong as exeptional shooting, passing and defense plus domination of the backboards enabled them to run a withering fast break from the second quarter on as their total domination of the boards let them run at will.

Dennis Wilson continued to score oo virtually all assortments of shots with 36 poiots and forward Frank Scott returned to his offensive form with 24. Jim McLeod led Conte's with 24 points.

SWIM MEET RECORD SET

By Martha Kinney. Martha Kinney, a student at Lawrence High School, set a meet record in her event in the 12th Annual Philadelphia Winter Open held earlier this month at the Germantown Academy pool.

Swimming in the 200-yard backstroke, Martha was clocked in 2:10.2--two seconds under national AAU qualifying times. She is a member of the Princeton Aquatic Association, an AAU swim club coached by Bill Farley, Princeton University swimming coach, and his wife, Cathy.

Martha also placed second in the 100 yard backstroke with a time of 1:01.6. Lisa Van Pelt, a member of the Lawrence High School swim team, placed fifth in the 200-yard backstroke. Her time: 2:12.8.

Guy Dorgan of Princeton reached the finals of the 200-yard freestyle. There were 60 events in the meet.
